PRECISION ... born of skill and experience!

Flying a modern jet with its mighty power, lightning speed and high maneuverability is no job for a layman! Such precision flying requires a skilled hand and hundreds of hours of experience. But the skill and experience go deeper! Today's jet aircraft require precision parts—like bearings—to stand tremendous speeds and high temperatures. ☆ Bower aircraft bearings—first choice of leading jet engine manufacturers—are built to stand turbine speeds as high as 15,000 R.P.M. and temperatures as high as 600° F. with a minimum of lubrication. Bower's many years' experience, matchless skill and consistent emphasis on quality give the aircraft industry bearings held to tolerances measured in millionths of an inch. ☆ An experienced Bower engineer will be glad to show you how Bower bearings can improve your product's performance. Get in touch with Bower soon.

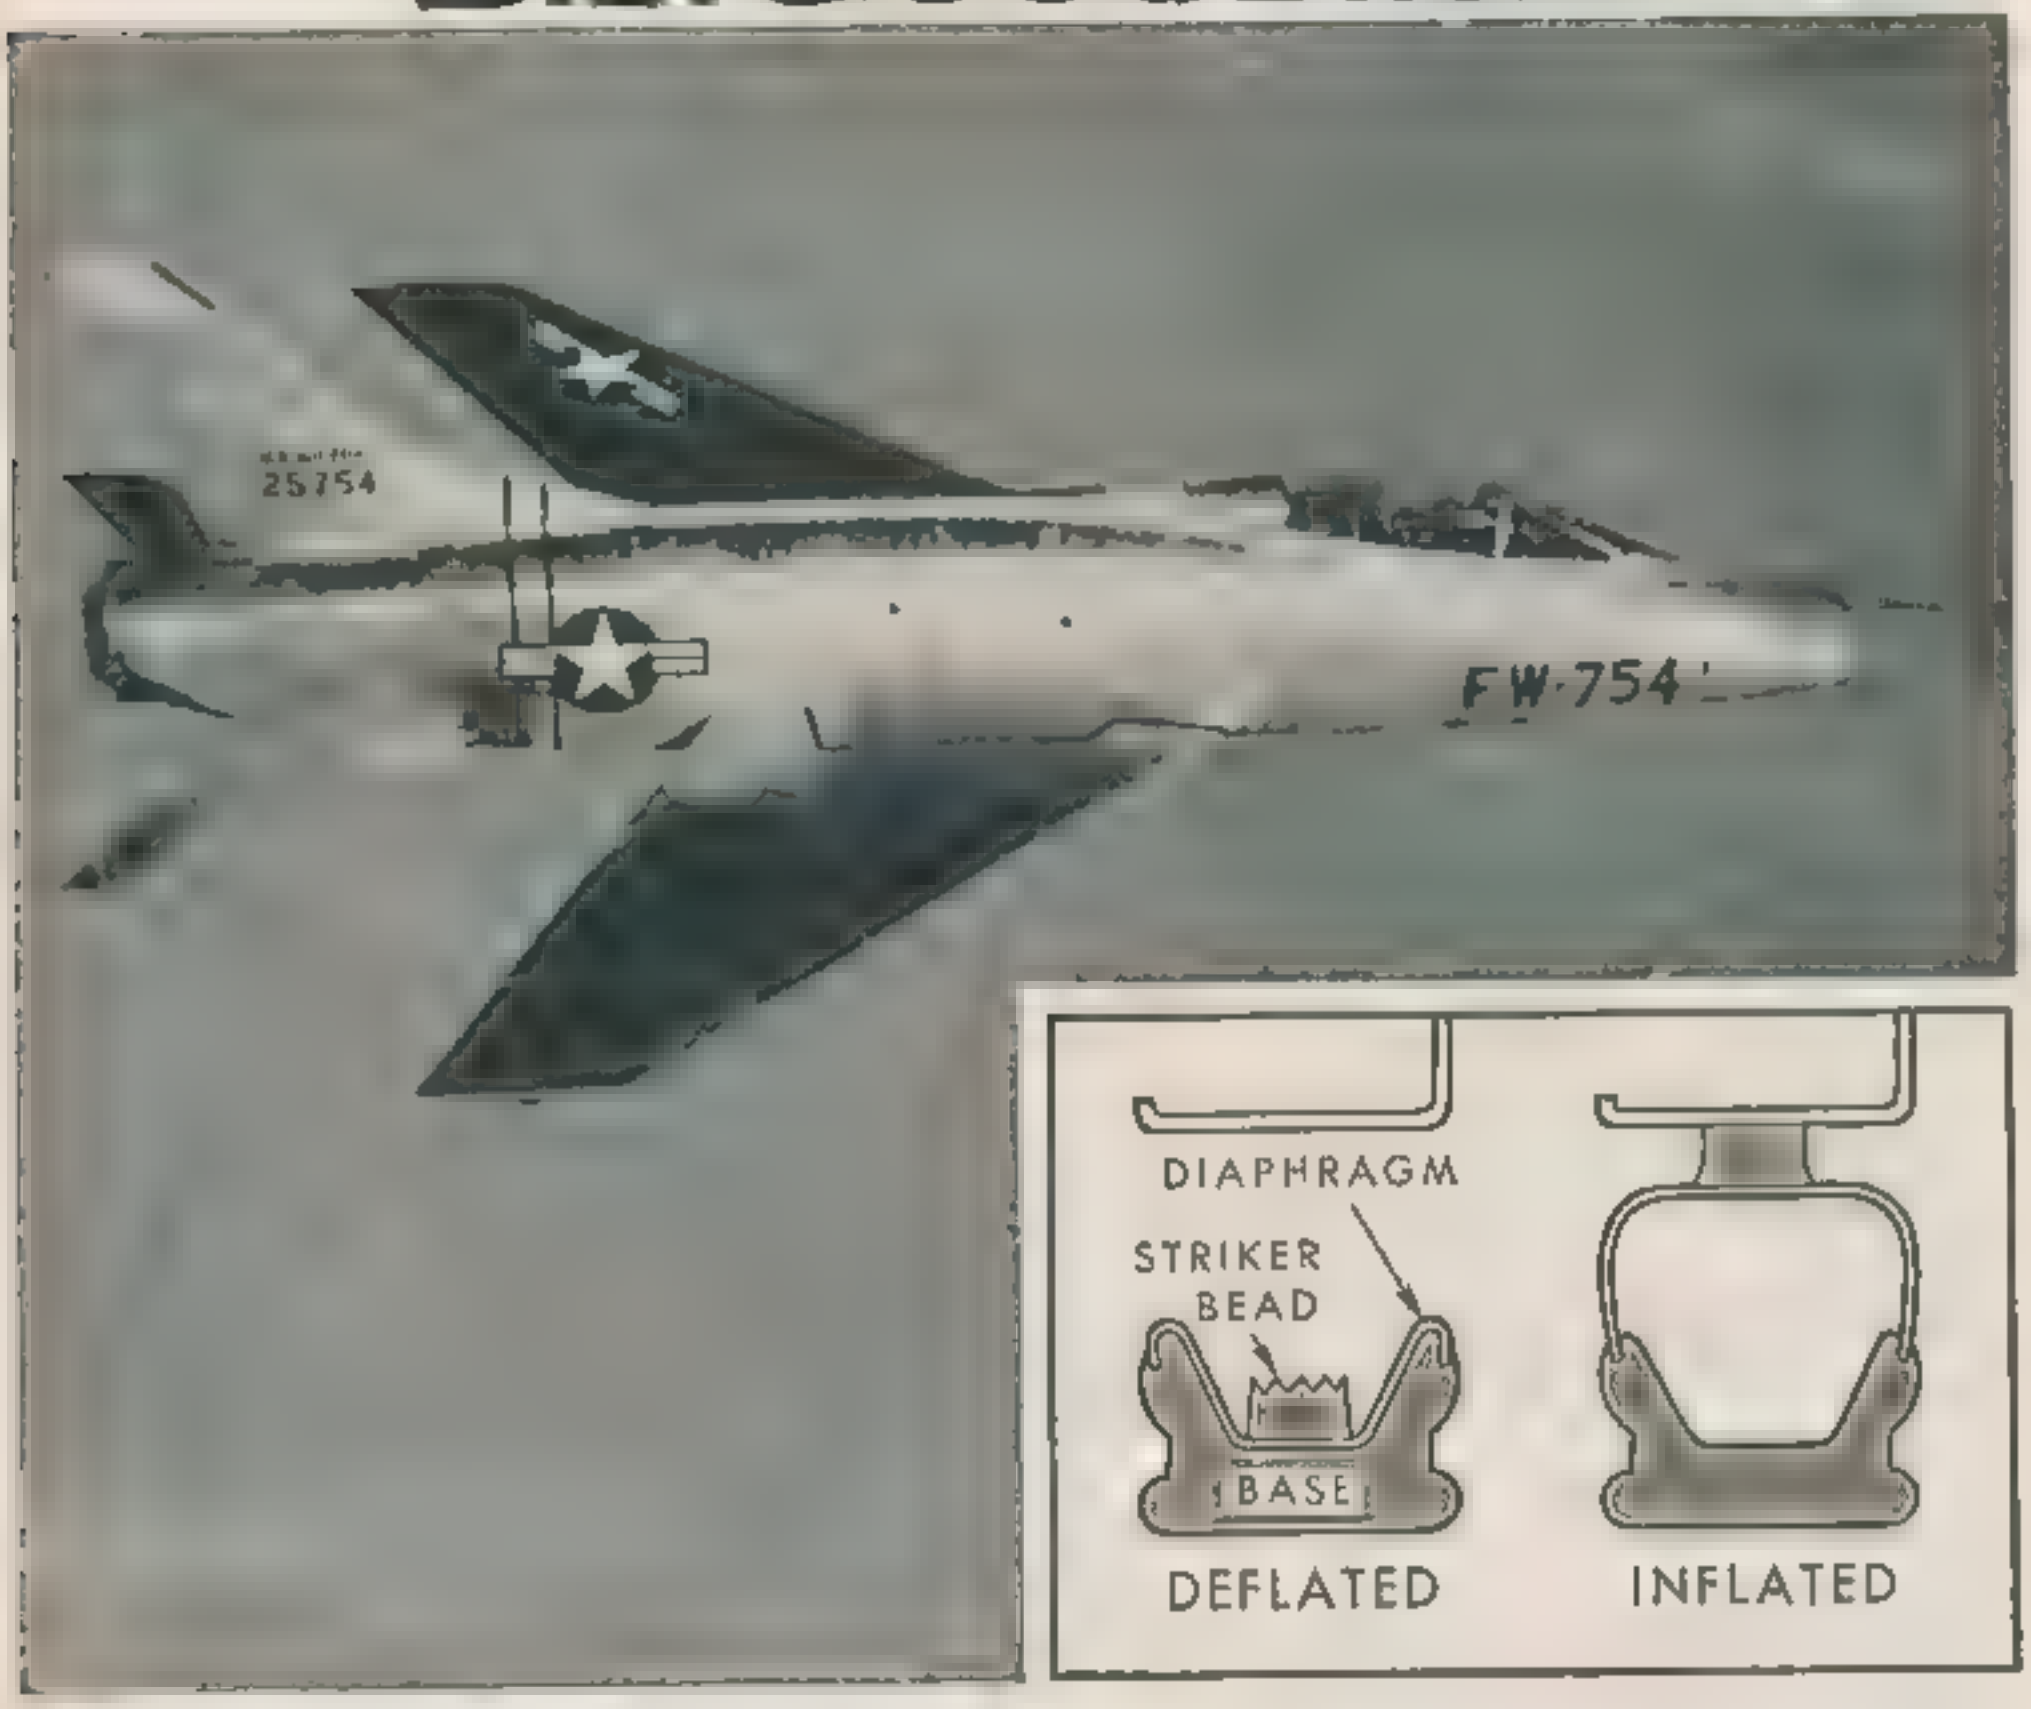
B.F.Goodrich

FIRST IN RUBBER



Low-pressure seal prevents high altitude blowouts

BUBBLE type canopies on fast military planes like North American's Super-Sabre had to be safely pressurized at altitudes of 8 miles or higher. Ordinary inflatable seals between the bubble and cockpit would often blow out from the effect of low pressures on the outside, high pressures on the inside.

B. F. Goodrich engineers were called in on the problem. A really effective seal, they believed, should operate with low pressure and stretch very little or not at all. Less stretch would mean less strain. They worked out a seal with a U-shaped solid rubber base. A rubberized fabric diaphragm nested inside the base simply lifts when inflated. (See diagram above) It works like blowing up a paper bag—low pressure gives full expansion with practically no stretch. Dangerous stretching of tube wall (like blowing up a toy balloon) is eliminated.

The new inflatable strip seal works almost instantly. Even at minus 65° it inflates with less pressure than ordinary seals needed at room temperature. There are other advantages. It resists wear and damage better than ordinary seals. It fits complex curves better. It seals and unseals faster. Sliding wear and scuffing are minimized.

The new B. F. Goodrich seal is now in use on more than a dozen makes of planes, including latest jet fighters and bombers.

Other B. F. Goodrich products for aviation include tires, wheels and brakes; De-Icers, heated rubber, Pressure Sealing Zippers; fuel cells; Rivnuts; accessories. The B. F. Goodrich Company, Aeronautical Sales, Akron, Ohio.

SELF-GOVERNMENT

". . . that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

The whole point of democracy is the happiness and freedom of all citizens . . . not the glorification of rulers, races or creeds. The responsibility of the government to the people is the cornerstone of democracy and the biggest obstacle in the path of totalitarianism: that's why self government is worth defending!

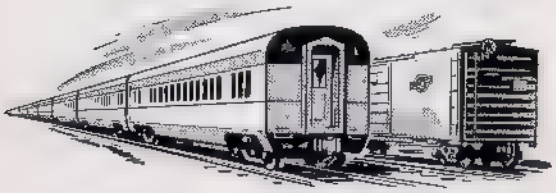
The Better to Serve You!

North Western transportation is a "moving" business in more ways than one. Every day new developments are taking place along our line that add up to only one thing—Better Service!

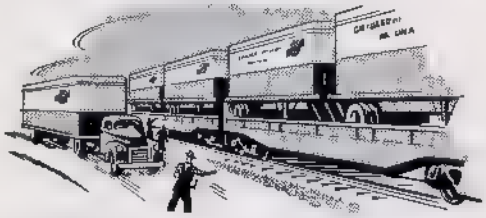
For instance:



$24,709,700 was spent in 1953 alone for new diesel locomotives, passenger cars and freight cars so that you might ride in greater comfort and we might more efficiently move your goods.

Freight moves faster today and arrives on time. In 1953 our fleet of regularly scheduled time-freights were 90.2% on time —an enviable record, as experienced shippers will recognize, since it involved 5,556 train movements.

In a single year over $34 million was spent in maintenance of way and structures —making our own private highway safer and smoother for your travel and your shipments.



In the past year new developments like our Trailer-On-Flat-Car Freight Service have been inaugurated. Two completely new streamliners have taken to the rails and soon double-deck suburban coaches will see service.

Modern diesel locomotives are replacing steam power to provide more efficient mass movement of people and goods. Today 95% of all North Western freight and 79% of all passenger trains are diesel powered.

That's what we mean when we say ours is a "moving" business—constantly progressing to the end that we may serve you better.

Cash in on this great promotion with two top TV stars working for you

Now for the first time, you can take advantage of a national advertising campaign featuring toys made of Styron® 475—and utilizing the dramatic medium of television combined with the selling power of two famous personalities, Dave Garroway and Arlene Francis.

Throughout November, these two stars will demonstrate and talk about Styron 475 toys on their top-rated daytime TV shows, "TODAY" and "HOME". They'll tell millions of viewers the importance of looking for the famous Styron 475 label on plastic toys during the Christmas season. And they'll show them that plastic toys can be as tough and durable as toys made of other materials.

This is a golden opportunity for a tie-in campaign that links your company with these outstanding television names. Dave Garroway and Arlene Francis sell products as [illegible] again and again. Make your local advertising a part of this hard-hitting campaign. Feature TV-advertised toys in your window displays. Contact your toy manufacturer for tie-in merchandising material or write The Dow Chemical Company, maker of Styron 475, for information on display materials.

Styron 475 is five times tougher than general-purpose polystyrene, and consumers from coast to coast will be looking for the Styron 475 label on plastic toys this Christmas. THE DOW CHEMICAL COMPANY, Midland, Michigan, Plastics Sales, PL 110.

NAVY'S R3Y-1 FEATURES MAGNESIUM CARGO DECK

"Fastest flying boat" demonstrates extruded magnesium's combination of light weight and toughness for better flooring

MAGNESIUM EXTRUDED CARGO DECK SECTION of the new Convair-built Navy R3Y-1 "Tradewind" now in production at San Diego. Magnesium provides the R3Y-1 with a tough, yet lightweight, sturdy insulated cargo deck for heavy-duty service

In all its 40-year history, water-based aircraft has never been appraised in terms of speed or maneuverability. The big lumbering transports of past years were reputedly slow and cumbersome in flight. This was true primarily because of their great weight.

Today, however, Convair and the U. S. Navy present the "Tradewind" as the fastest flying boat in aviation history. Its turbo-prop engines provide a top speed of more than 350 mph . . . enable it to take off in 30 seconds with full load.

One factor that contributes greatly to the increased speed and easy handling of this giant seaplane is the extensive use of magnesium in its design. Take as an example, the cargo deck. It's made of magnesium ZK60A extrusion alloy. It's light in weight. (Magnesium is the world's lightest structural metal!) And it's strong and rugged enough for heaviest duty. This combination of qualities makes magnesium perfectly suited for this application.

There are other instances, too, in this and in other aircraft, where magnesium has helped designers solve some of their weight and speed problems. Have you considered magnesium for your uses? For more detailed information, contact your nearest Dow sales office, or write directly to THE DOW CHEMICAL COMPANY, Magnesium Department, Midland, Michigan.

You'll talk for years about your Glacier Park vacation

How you explored Montana's Rocky Mountain magic in Glacier National Park—and discovered the secret of world famous Trick Falls, one of America's wonders.

How you relaxed in Nature's own air-conditioning—and thrilled to Glacier's snow-capped peaks right from the sun deck of your luxurious mountain hotel.

How you vacationed on the way—forgot travel worries on Great Northern's safe, luxurious Western Star direct to Glacier Park through 'Vacationland, U.S.A.'

How you photographed and talked with real Blackfeet Indians who greeted you at the train in full ceremonial dress—part of Glacier's excitingly colorful atmosphere.

How you marveled at the view from Logan Pass—6664 feet high on the Continental Divide—high point on the breath-taking 'Going-to-the-Sun' Highway.

How you harmonized that night on the shore of Swiftcurrent Lake—and promised yourself you'd come back soon to glorious Glacier where there's more to see and do.

For information on Glacier Park, Pacific Northwest or California, write P. G. Holmes, Passenger Traffic Manager, Great Northern Railway, Department G-24, St. Paul 1, Minnesota. Ask for literature about Western vacations.

Built to save money. This car combines stamina and corrosion-resistance, yet saves weight. It utilizes a high strength low alloy steel containing nickel, sold under the trade name, "Yoloy," and produced by Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, Youngstown, Ohio.

Cut Car Weight Yet Extend Car Life By Using a Nickel Alloy Steel

5 Times as Corrosion-Resistant as Carbon Steels

There are two reasons why you can cut deadweight when you use high strength, low alloy steels containing nickel . . .

First, because thin light sections of these steels provide the same strength and ruggedness as thicker, heavier sections of plain carbon steel.

Second, weight saving is practical with these steels because long tests in actual service have shown their unusually good corrosion resistance: five times that of carbon steels and two and one half times that of copper-bearing steels. A high degree of original strength is thus retained during years of use by steels containing nickel.

In addition, these steels withstand battering, abrasion and shocks. They answer the railroad man's call for minimum maintenance, and maximum use per dollar invested.

They'll give you a good return on your money by adding years of life to relatively light-weight cars. And less car-weight increases your revenue per ton mile.

Moderate in cost, high strength, low alloy steels containing nickel along with other alloying elements, are produced under a variety of trade names by leading steel companies.

Learn more about these steels, and how they can help you . . . send for a copy of "High-Strength, Low-Alloy Steels." It's yours for the asking.

single-package construction, one has only to look at the F-94C's fire control system, with some 35 "black boxes" scattered around the nose section. However, this Hughes system is of an earlier vintage than the new Westinghouse package. It is possible that newer Hughes systems now under design will come in single-package-type construction.

► Other Advantages—The single-package construction permits Westinghouse to fabricate and furnish practically all of the interconnecting wiring between system components, simplifying the initial installation by the aircraft manufacturer.

Another advantage of the packaged construction is that a single ducted cooling system can serve all of the black boxes in the package, with the amount of cooling air for each set according to its internal heat dissipation. This is a more efficient arrangement than the more common practice of putting individual cooling fans in each box.

From a logistics standpoint, the new Westinghouse packaged system is particularly attractive to the Navy. Except for cockpit accessories, the same fire control package can be used on all of the Navy's new crop of interceptors.

► Push to Test—Westinghouse has made it easy for a pilot, radar operator, or maintenance man to spot-check its new fire control system. Equipment can be checked by setting up a test problem (using special built-in circuitry), pushing a button, and then watching the radar scope. Air Arm believes strongly in built-in test provisions, wherever feasible.

External test equipment for field use is also required and Air Arm has set up a separate group whose prime function is to get such equipment designed and out on time. The group handles test equipment design for all Air Arm products.

Westinghouse says it has been delivering equipment instruction books in advance of the equipment itself, a very desirable, but not-too-frequent practice in the industry.

Another maintenance aid is an elapsed-time meter which keeps a running tabulation of the number of hours the fire control is operated. This permits establishing maintenance and overhaul periods based on equipment use instead of on the less significant airplane hours.

► Engineering Staff—Air Arm engineering department numbers around 1,000, of whom approximately 500 are graduate engineers or scientists, 150 are craftsmen. The balance are in supporting functions, including model shop and flight engineering. Many of the Air Arm test pilots are also engineers, an important requirement when testing complex equipment in a single-place aircraft.

The Air Arm engineering staff is effectively larger than its numbers would indicate, Herwald emphasizes. Reason is that the division draws on engineering talents in other company divisions.

Small Actuator

Lightweight actuator, weighing under 2 lb., developed by Minneapolis-Honeywell's Aeronautical Division for avionic use, consists of two-phase 400-cps. induction motor, velocity signal generator, and 50:1 gear train. Output torque of new model MG13A is rated at 1 in.-lb. for continuous duty, 1.4 in.-lb under stalled conditions. It measures 2.5 in. dia. and 5 in. long. M-H says actuator meets all appropriate MIL and AN specs.

Lackawanna's Crusade for FREIGHT SAFETY

THE GREATEST SINGLE CAUSE of loss and damage to freight is rough handling. For years, Lackawanna has pioneered in the use of the most modern mechanized equipment to assure maximum protection for shipments at every stage of their handling.

Batteries of fork-lift trucks provide greater speed yet minimize damage. Special facilities provide de pendable coupling supports. Every mechanical means possible for safe transportation is in service at Lackawanna yards, piers and terminals.

But beyond the mechanical controls, there is the human element. At Lackawanna the education of personnel to handle freight with care is an active CRUSADE!

Constant attention is directed to correct stowing, blocking and bracing of shipments. An intensive campaign during the first two months of this year placed special emphasis on yard switching and road operations where most of the rough handling occurs.

On posters, in bulletins and by close personal supervision, the Lackawanna Safety Crusade is directed to every Lackawanna employee. It is a constant reminder of his individual responsibility to make 1954 a banner year for perfect shipping!

YOU'LL MILL
REAL DOUGH WITH THE MILL GAME

We were pretty sure Mill was another big seller when we first produced it. But when the first few people got their hands on it, we just knew that here was a game scheduled for big things.

Some said, "Mill! This is the old German game, Mühle. A wonderful, wonderful game."

Others remembered it as Morelles. Nearly everyone recognized it as an old favorite game, now available with the colorful streamlining of handsome plastic.

Each Mill game includes the playing field with 18 Jolly Miller figures.

The catchy idea of Mill has lasted a century. It comes from the old flour millers, which is just one reason for our believing that the game will mean "dough" for you!

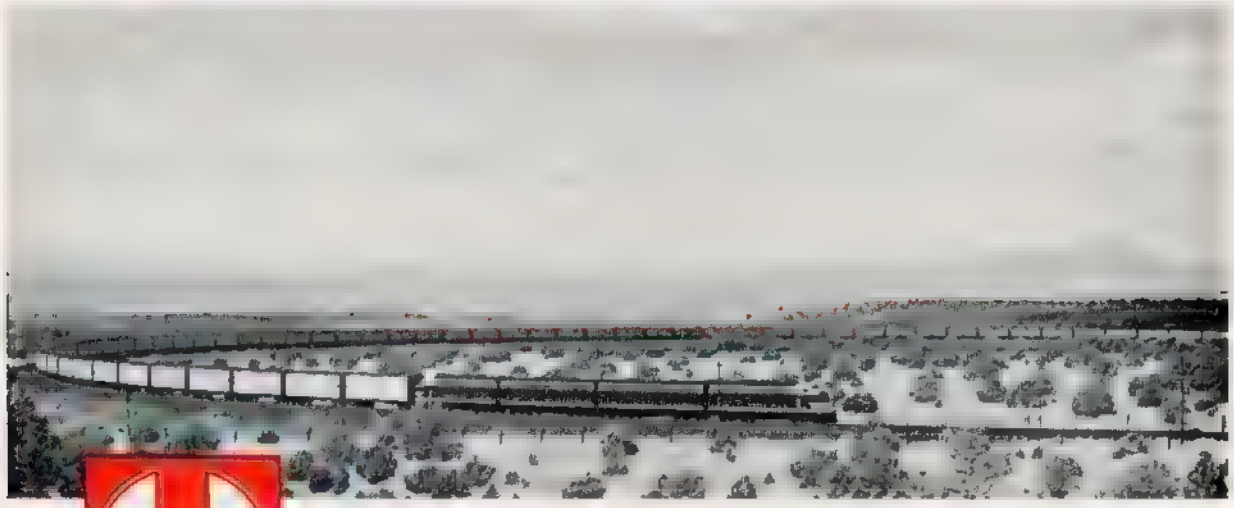
Now SATCO-LINED JOURNAL BEARINGS

MAKE NEW RECORDS IN FREIGHT SERVICE, TOO!



Santa Fe

Santa Fe Puts 1000 Refrigerator Cars on LOW COST SATCO—with only 14 removals (including wheel changes) in 26,000,000 miles

Putting Satco lined journal bearings on freight cars costs only about $3.00 more per car. That's a very low price for the premium performance you can get.

On the Santa Fe, in November, 1952, 1000 "reefers" were put on Satco — part of the big progressive improvement program for "America's New Railroad." After one full year (including one of the hottest summers on record) these 1000 reefers had accumulated 26,000,000 car miles with a total of only 14 bearing removals. Some of the 14 removals had to be made because of wheel changes that require new bearings whether the old ones have worn or not. And the Santa Fe is still getting the same top quality performance.

Why Satco Bearings are Better

Satco proved itself on passenger cars and locomotives years ago. Now it's making records in freight service, too. The reasons: Satco has a melting point 150°F. higher than standard AAR babbitt. That means a harder and stronger bearing at high temperatures. In the laboratory and in service, Satco-lined bearings have actually been run under full load at temperatures of 400°F. and over, without ill effect. When you consider that normally the bearings operate at temperatures about 100°F. above atmospheric, the big extra margin of safety you get with Satco is apparent.

More Satco for the Santa Fe

This extensive freight car application has been so satisfactory that now the Santa Fe plans to put 500 box cars on Satco-lined bearings. Other roads are freight-testing Satco, too, with hopper cars, cement cars, and other types already in service.

Ask us to give you the facts and figures about Satco lining metal and what it can do to improve your freight car performance. Just write to Magnus Metal Corporation, 111 Broadway, New York 6; or 80 E. Jackson Blvd., Chicago 4.

Oak Rubber Has New Management Slate

The Oak Rubber Company of Ravenna, Ohio, world's largest toy balloon manufacturer, has released the names of new officers and directors elected following the recent acquisition by the Collette family of the entire interest of the Shira family in the firm.

The new president is W. R. (Bob) Collette, son of the late Paul E. Collette, co-founder of the company. He is shown above shaking hands with John W. Shira, Sr., as the negotiations for the purchase of the Shira interests were successfully completed.

C. W. MacDowell, sales manager for the past eight years, has been elected secretary. He will continue as director of sales, in which capacity he will be a member of the new operating team of sales, advertising, and production pictured above: George F. Reed, production manager; George L. Hampton, advertising and product development manager; and Mr. MacDowell. Mr. Reed has been with Oak for 21 years, while Mr. Hampton for the past eight years has been in charge of advertising and advertising balloon sales.

In addition to his new duties as president, Mr. Collette will continue as treasurer of the company. The former president, John W. Shira, Sr., a director of the Toy Manufacturers of the U. S. A., Inc., will be retained in the capacity of consultant.

The Oak Rubber Company was founded in 1916, and in addition to attaining its present established position in the toy balloon industry, has become well known as a manufacturer of latex toys for infants under the trade name "Squeeze-Me Toys." President W. R. Collette and his new management team have aggressive plans for the future, including the continuing development of new balloon and toy items and new ways to merchandise and promote them. Their latest achievement, soon to be announced, is an automatic balloon vending machine, that not only dispenses a packaged balloon, but actually blows it up.

QUEEN MOTHER ELIZABETH TAKES TOUR AT SCHWARZ

During the recent visit of England's Queen Mother Elizabeth to the United States, Her Majesty managed to take time out, despite the many functions tended in her honor, to make an extensive shopping tour of New York stores.

As might be expected, the last but not least of her visits was to world-famous F. A. O. Schwarz of Fifth Avenue. Her Majesty who was escorted throughout the store by President Phillip L. Kirkman appeared to enjoy every minute of her tour. The Queen Mother is said to have expressed an interest in items suitable for a six year-old boy and a four-year-old girl, and after testing a variety of toys, purchased a steam shovel, a plastic tea set and a variety of other playthings.

Noticing a Selchow & Righter "Scrabble" set on one of the counters, she remarked "I am just learning to play this game" and promptly purchased a set. It is interesting to note that Selchow & Righter Company, manufacturers of "Scrabble," Parcheesi, and other well-known games have been supplying F. A. O. Schwarz for the past 87 years.

Globe Miniature Railroad Kits Scale Models of Actual Trains

Among the newest developments in the toy and hobby field is the Globe line of authentic miniature railroad kits—a new series expected to find heavy sales among the millions of Americans who have seen or ridden a train. The easily-assembled plastic kits have been manufactured to retail for 98c and 89c.

First in the line are a Diesel locomotive and a Booster Unit, each intricately detailed for display on the mantle, in the playroom or den. The locomotive ("A" Unit) retails for 98c, the Booster Unit ("B") for 9c less.

The Diesels, which are being successfully pre-tested in key department and toy stores, are scale models of the locomotives found at the head of freight and passenger trains on the nation's numerous great railroads.

"The realism of the locomotives has appeal for Dad . . . as well as for the youngster," spokesmen for the company emphasize. "Our test sales in department stores indicate that the Diesels will for this reason become a steady, year-around best seller."

The locomotives, which always are run in pairs and usually are run on real railroads in units of four, mark the toy industry debut of Irvin R. Athearn, for 10 years one of the top-selling manufacturers in the hobby field.

Mr. Athearn reports his advance sales are heavy in the hobby trade, where he is receiving his third and fourth round of re-orders on the new Globe line. Veteran model railroaders have written the firm to say that even in the toy trains, the "Athearn touch"—meaning an inordinately high degree of realism—is evident, the manufacturer adds.

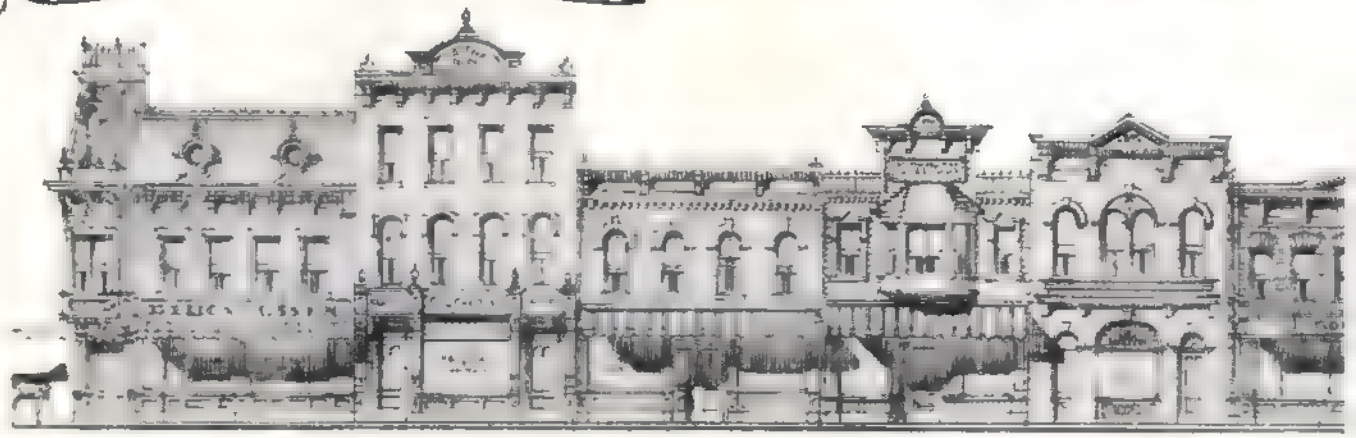
in California



DISNEYLAND, a $9,000,000 overall project, and undoubtedly the most fabulous enterprise of its kind ever conceived any place in the world, will come into being on a 160-acre tract which was part of the historic Rancho San Juan Cajon de Santa Ana in Orange County, California.

So vast is the project that it will take more than a year to complete and, when in operation, it will provide employment for more than 500 persons.

Associated with the famed movie producer in establishing Disneyland will be the American Broadcasting Company, Paramount Theatres Inc., and the Western Printing and Lithograph Company of Racine, Wisconsin. The latter has been exclusive publisher of all Disney publications for 20 years.

Disneyland will serve as the focal point from which ABC-TV shows will be produced. Mr. Disney's contract with ABC and United Paramount Theatres is for seven years.

Virtually beyond description the park is defined by Disney as "a combination of a world fair, a playground, a community center, a museum of living facts, and a showplace of beauty and magic. Once you walk through the portals, you will leave today behind and enter a world of yesterday, tomorrow and fantasy."

A dream of Disney for years, he confidently predicts more than 5,000,000 people will come from all over the world to view the spectacle each year, terming it California's greatest tourist magnet.

Parking space will accommodate 15,000 cars at a time

Set in several sections, each of which is an innovation, the entire park will be educational as well as entertaining, and will be dedicated to, and based on, the ideals that created America.

Sections will include True-Life Adventure Land, The Land of Tomorrow, Frontier Land, Fantasy Land, Recreation Land and Holiday Land.

Many leading corporations of America will participate in the Land of Tomorrow section, where the wonders of science will be demonstrated.

All of Disney's cartoon characters, Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck, Snow White, etc., as well as many of his famous live-action features, have been projected into the planning.

Of interest to people in merchandising, Walt Disney has revealed plans to make available to independent concessionaires, a number of stores in the fabulous Disneyland. Adding authenticity to Main Street with apothecary shops dispensing merchandise, a Trading Post in Frontier Land, curio shops in Fantasy Land and many others, Disneyland will be a bright, warm community flowing with life.

Disneyland, over the counters of some twenty or thirty fine shops, will offer for sale to an estimated 5,000,000 patrons annually, quality merchandise at fair trade prices covering a great many lines, including Disney character merchandise, western goods, ceramics, toys, etc. These shops will vary in size and have exterior facades compatible with the motif of the Land they are in.

Disneyland has established a Retail Merchandise Division at 2400 W. Alameda Ave., Burbank, Calif., to assist business men interested in leasing stores in Disneyland.

PLANS FOR DISNEYLAND

One of the highlights of Walt Disney's "Disneyland" television series, which premieres in October on ABC, will be a preview of his $9,000,000 wonderland near Anaheim in Orange County, California, where construction will start late this summer.

IN giving his television audience an advance peek, Walt will reveal the over-all plan he has devised for the real-life magic kingdom that bears the same name as his video show, "Disneyland."

On 160 sunny southern California acres, purchased in May, 1954, Disney will create an authentic wonder of the entertainment world. It is a 20-year dream of his come true

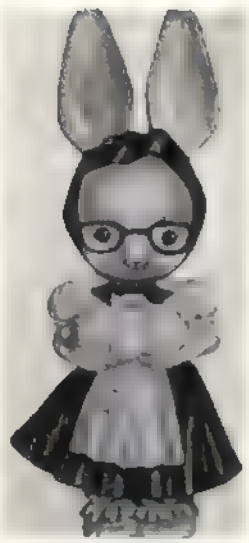
Knickerbocker Plastic Expands Easter Line



#380
Sister Rabbit

KNICKERBOCKER Plastic Company, North Hollywood, Cal., already manufacturers of one of the largest lines of plastic Easter toys in existence, are adding a number of items for Easter, 1955. According to Ernest Kling, vice-president and controller at Knickerbocker Plastic, the Easter line will consist of 46 items, five of which are new.

Added to the line are a Sister Rabbit, a Petite Father Rabbit and a Petite Sister Rabbit. These three are smaller plastic models of the extremely successful Father and Sister Rabbit banks and rattles marketed previously.

Also added is a new plastic bank called the Rooster Bank, a faithful copy of an original high-quality ceramic table decoration made in Italy. The Rooster Bank can not only be used as a child's savings bank, but also can do double duty as a decoration or table centerpiece in any home.

Another addition to the Easter line is an animated Running Bunny. Moulded of soft polyethylene plastic, it can be made to scamper across the floor by the operation of a string and lead weight flywheel operated by a rubber band.

The popular Father and Mother Rabbit banks, approximately half a million of which were sold during the 1954 Easter season, and which have previously carried a retail price of $1 will now be available at a suggested retail of 89c. The Quacking Duck Pull Toy, introduced last year, is now carrying a suggested retail price of $1.49. This appealing pull toy, 5½" high and 10" long, consists of a mother duck and two ducklings riding in a brightly colored automobile. The mother duck flaps her wings and quacks as the pull toy operates.

Both Mr. Kling and Sanford Glick, vice-president and general manager of Knickerbocker Plastic, point out that the company is responding to the call for making all large items of high impact plastic wherever this is possible. All of the plastic banks and the Quacking Duck Pull Toy, because of the use of high impact plastic, are practically unbreakable, the Knickerbocker executives assert.

Mr. Glick added that Knickerbocker is converting to automatic moulding which will add to the already high quality of its product.

The Knickerbocker Easter line of transparent plastic eggs, which were so successful last Easter, this year will have additional eye appeal. The eggs will be tinted pink or blue. Extremely careful painting and the lavish use of color have always been a feature of the Knickerbocker Easter line.

It is of considerable interest that the Knickerbocker Plastic toys have always been so popular and durable that their original toy, the Skipper Duck, is still selling in large volume. During the 1954 season, it is stated, over a quarter of a million of this one original item were sold.

Last Easter, Knickerbocker Plastic Company offered a special Easter package for retailers. This was their item #99, consisting of 126 pieces with a total retail value of $30.04. The individual retail value of the pieces ranged from 10c to $1. The assortment was put together after considerable research, the proportion of individual pieces varying according to the popularity of the items. Retailers, it is reported, were so pleased with this assortment that the offer is being made again this year. Several new items are being included.

Knickerbocker Plastic is making an additional offer of another Easter assortment (their item #100). This consists of a package of 72 pieces with a total retail value of $7.24. These are all 10c items selected from their most popular group at this price.

In addition to arousing consumer interest in toys, Toy Guidance Council set out to strengthen dealer-customer relations. TV window posters were prepared by our advertising department featuring the toys individually demonstrated each week on the TGC sponsored shows. A "Prestige Toy" catalog available to all member retail stores, two 3-dimensional membership plaques on stands for window and store display to identify member retailers with the program; a series of professional ads, stressing a member store's ability to furnish proper play equipment and guidance, and mats of over 200 popular items were offered; and a layaway program under which a complete package plan for selling better grade toys was instituted.

Point-of-sale promotion was further strengthened by training store personnel to give qualified advice on toy purchases. A Four Lesson Toy Consultant Course for personnel was prepared by TGC, through which store clerks could be trained to become expert consultants. Those passing the examinations administered at the end of the course have been awarded diplomas and Toy Consultant badges which only they among all store employees are entitled to wear. In addition, an imposing Certificate of Authority has been awarded to stores for display and to certify that their staffs have received special training.

Supplementing the training course for store personnel, TGC also made available its "Development Through Play" booklet to help parents recognize the need for proper play equipment at various stages in a child's growth. And child guidance lecture material has been prepared and distributed for use in conjunction with P.T.A. activities, women's clubs and associations, all designed to illustrate how proper playtools affect children's personality and character development.

Finally, Toy Guidance Council has prepared publicity material to help local member retail stores acquaint their communities with their TGC membership and ability to supply the nationally-advertised

It's Prestige... and Profits at D&F's

DANIELS & FISHER STORES COMPANY of Denver, Colorado affectionately abbreviated to "D&F's," is one of America's leading prestige stores and reputedly the oldest in Denver. The success of this operation is based not only on offering quality but in meeting changing conditions. With fluctuations, new trends, new styling, stocking has changed and concentration has been placed on the unit sale. The sound merchandising techniques employed have kept the store dollar-sound without jeopardizing its enviable reputation.

OLDER SALESPEOPLE

Lester Lupton talks of these techniques, which are employed in the extensive toy department of which he is buyer. He explains that he considers sales training equally important with buying in building high unit sales.

"When we stock the most progressive and basically sound construction toys available in the Intermountain States, we cannot have them presented by extremely young people. The sales-clerk, chosen for dignity and her ability in the subtleties of building, unit sales, must of necessity be mature—we find that customers have a tendency to dismiss the suggestions and presentation of a very young person. Choosing on this basis, we can train effectively."

BALANCED DISPLAY

While it is true that the finest toys are stocked, D&F's are not closing their door to the lucrative sale of impulse items. Display within the department is balanced to present not only an occasional prestige item, which has become the keynote of this operation, but suggestive selling displays of every toy line carried.

Group selling has been an effective medium in building the unit sale for this progressive firm. They believe that it is a mistake for retailers to let the public think in terms of one-item purchases. When, for example, a customer is examining one of the miniature models of road graders, tractors, or spreaders etc., D&F believes a salesperson should consider the customer a prospect for several—in fact the full line. If the customer asks, "What is the price of the tractor?" the salesperson replies directly, "$6.98"—or whatever it happens to be—but adds, "and only $16.98 for the full set." Customer thinking is immediately directed to the possibility of an all-inclusive purchase through this subtle, non-pressure method. The customer will envision the child's delight with the full group; the possibility of remembering several children with one or more from the set. The thought stays with the customers even if they only choose one as an impulsive purchase for a loved child or grandchild.

GROUNDWORK

Home, they will think what a delightful gift it would make for Jimmie for Christmas; how much Harold likes to tinker with toys which actually perform their real function. Whether the immediate sale is of one or the group, the presentation of sets builds the future potential materially.

Mr. Lupton says that new trends, new toys manufactured, present a constant challenge in stocking. Who was to guess that the cartoon "Dennis the Menace" would prove so popular that there would be a clamor for character dolls? With an open to buy stocking program, the department can have on display merchandise which is in current demand without cluttering stocks with slow-moving items.

An important factor in the unit sale is also the ability of the salesperson to recognize the budget requirements of the customer. In a relaxed, friendly manner, it is easy for the salesperson to start the prospective customer talking country." He repairs trains and equipment and sets up layouts at night in customer's homes.

Ross Vick, former high school athletic star, whose record is well known to Austin youngsters, advises them on athletic equipment.

TWO WEEKS' TRAINING

All of the Stautz employees, including extra Christmas help, attend a two-week training school conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Stautz annually before the holiday rush. They gain a thorough, basic knowledge of the educational as well as the practical aspects of the merchandise. Employee turnover has been remarkably low with many of the extra Christmas workers returning each year.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Stautz keep in close contact with the public through participation in Austin's active civic recreation program. The well-integrated program carried on for all age groups has created a growing realization of the benefits of playtime and Stautz's is preparing to meet this need and to grow with it.

but want to keep the total cost reasonable. About $2 seems to be the most popular average price for an item, so we try to feature some items in that range and stock them heavily.

"Of course, Easter is the occasion for many bigger toy purchases, too. Tricycles, for example, go very well at that time. People simply give the child something they have been planning to buy anyway, but as an Easter gift."

SCHOOLED IN SUGGESTION

Because of the good traffic in the department, Mrs. D'Amico says, many plus sales can be made through suggestive selling efforts. This is where Block Company personnel do an outstanding job. With each purchase of a bunny or stuffed toy, the salesperson recommends some other plaything to go with it. After each toy sale, the customer is asked, "Why not take this little bunny along with it?"

The key to making these efforts pay off, Mrs D'Amico points out, is to have the salesperson recommend some very specific item each time rather than just a general category or "something else." At a sales meeting before the start of Easter selling, the buyer stresses the importance of this suggestive selling, and goes over some of the outstanding "extra" items the staff can push.

At this same meeting or another one, Mrs. D'Amico presents the merchandise that will be featured in Easter ads and windows. Often, new items have been bought in large quantities especially for the Easter promotion, and the selling features of these are gone over closely. At the same time, the staff is reminded that every toy in the department can still be sold as an Easter gift.

"Like any other selling season, Easter calls for careful advance planning," Mrs D'Amico says. "Instead of trying to do things at the last minute, when the advertising and display people are busy working with the ready-to-wear departments, I plan my Easter promotion months in advance. That way all the displays and decorations are ready well ahead of time, and it's easy to deal with anything that comes up or changes that have to be made at the last minute."

about the child for whom he is choosing. The question: "Is this a prospect for a full set of books or a pick-up item?" is answered through conversation. Sales are not lost then by trying the fatal practice of promoting a $5 item when the customer cannot and will not pay more than $3.

FLEXIBLE APPROACH

Here again stocking enters the picture, with moderately priced name brands stocked to satisfy this group of customers. There is no fixed program for trading up or trading down. The sales clerk, in a leisurely manner, simply encourages the customer to talk. The potential patron will invariably create a picture which any skilled person can recognize.

Service is essential in building the unit sale. This not only applies to suggestions within the age group, but with a grasp of the personality and interest of the child." A little girl who is a "tomboy," may not be the child for whom a football should be suggested, but neither is she the child who will relish receiving a completely outfitted doll house. Let the customer mention the child's greatest interest and a sale is closed when the clerk offers something geared to satisfy this need. It builds not only the immediate sale, but future confidence when the child is conspicuously pleased with the choice.

A woman entering the toy department mentioned that she had thought herself extravagant when she chose a tractor-road grader for her son's fourth birthday which cost $15.50. Her feeling had been that for that price it should be

TOY MFRS. U.S.A. AMERICAN TOYS

Felix appears to be enjoying himself with Faye Emerson and Steve Allen in the 1953 Macy parade.

Felix the Cat Licensed to Toy Makers

One of the oldest continuously successful cartoon characters in this country, and indeed throughout the world, has been "Felix the Cat," originated by the late Pat Sullivan in 1921.

Here he is at International Motor Sports Show in New York.

AS the originator's nephew, who has taken over the management of the "Felix" enterprises, remarked recently, "Uncle Pat needed an animal for the animated cartoons which he had been producing since 1915 —and, Felix was it!" This very human character portrays and satirizes everyday situations in which people find themselves involved—and his universal popularity stems from the fact that the people in his audiences can identify themselves so thoroughly with him.

Since he first came out 33 years ago, "Felix" has appeared in one form or another (animated cartoons, comic books, newspapers, etc.) in South America, United States, Canada, England, South Africa, Australia, New Zealand, Indonesia, Italy and all of the Scandanavian countries, to mention only a few. But, what is more important to the toy industry, he has also been licensed for many years to toy manufacturers for nearly every kind of toy and novelty imaginable.

One of the first licensees was the Gund Manufacturing Company, which in 1924 made a plush "Felix" doll 14 inches long. Also about that time George S. Borgfeldt, Inc., came out with a jointed wooden "Felix." In fact in those years, "Felix" was such a popular commodity that at the Wembly Exhibition in England in 1926-27 he had a complete pavilion to himself! At the present time, among the types of toys using "Felix" are jig saw puzzles, books, coloring books, squeeze toys, plastic charms, and decorations for the tops of cakes.

Felix Is Successful

Mr. Sullivan died in 1930, and his nephew and namesake took over the business. In 1948, after a slight hiatus during the war, a corporation was formed, and the present Pat Sullivan became president of it in 1950. He credits a great measure of the continuing success of "Felix" to Otto Messmer, art director of the studios, and his staff of artists. The studios are located at 114 E. 40th St., New York City.

The publisher of the ever-popular "Felix" comic books is the Toby Press in New York, which brings out a monthly book, as well as a special quarterly edition. It has just begun a new series entitled "Felix and his Friends." "Felix" is also seen in 40 papers in the U. S., as well as 40 more overseas, distributed by the King Features Syndicate in a four-frame strip.

An interesting sidelight on the "Felix" appeal through the years was outlined for us by Mr. Sullivan during our interview. He told us that he and the other members of the firm feel that the age groups who particularly enjoy "Felix" are children from four to 10 years old, and adults from about 22 years old and up.

A Costumed Performer

In recent months, "Felix" has also been widely promoted in the form of a costumed performer who has been a very popular feature of the November Macy Parade in New York, and other similar events throughout the nation. He has also been named official mascot of the World Sports Show, is a solicitor for the March of Dimes campaign; has appeared on the Steve Allen Show, and is scheduled for a picture story in Life Magazine in the near future.

Mr. Sullivan said that "Felix" is now available for further licensing, and anyone who is interested may get in touch either with him at Felix the Cat Productions, Inc., at the above-mentioned address, or with Chester Weil at King Features in New York. He mentioned that the firm does all it can to help the manufacturer merchandise the product, and offers outstanding promotional help.

Cleaner for Styrene Helps Metallizers Improve Adhesion Of Base-Coat Lacquer

Using Poly-Kleen to clean polystyrene surfaces to secure maximum lacquer adhesion prior to metallizing, is the newest industrial application for its liquid cleaner, it is announced by Schwartz Chemical Co., Inc., 326 W. 70th St., New York.

Before polystyrene can be metallized, it must be given a base coat of lacquer. The new use for Poly-Kleen was discovered by platers who had been faced with production losses and rejects because of inability to secure consistently good adhesion with their lacquer coatings over the entire surface of the plastic.

Metallizers found that they secured poor adhesion whenever the surface of the plastic had been soiled with foreign matter, frequently found on styrene after the plastic is removed from molding machines.

According to Schwartz, Poly-Kleen effectively solves this problem because it is a solvent-type, liquid cleaner that quickly removes grease, mold lubricants, and oils stains without crazing or marring even the thinnest polystyrene stock.

The manufacturer also points out that the cleaned plastic may be allowed to air dry without leaving a film or residue.

Disposable Towel for Industrial Use is Flameproofed

DEVELOPMENT of a process to flameproof a new, all cotton, disposable towel for industrial use was announced today by B. J. Petricoff, president of the Leshner Corp., Hamilton, O., the largest producer of wiping cloths and industrial textiles in the United States.

Mr. Petricoff said the fire-resistant treatment will remove the major objection of some industries to replacing cloth wipers and towels with a cotton towel.

The new flameproof product is now in production at a rate of 500,000 daily. The Leshner Corp. is installing additional machinery to maintain daily production of 3,000,000 towels by early in 1954, the executive disclosed.

The Leshner Corp. perfected the new material after 13 years of research. Mr. Petricoff predicts the cotton, disposable towel will replace old-fashioned wiping cloths throughout American industry and allied fields where conventional wiping cloths have been a major problem in cost and maintenance.

The new towel reduces wiper costs as much as 50 per cent in factories now using rental wipers, according to Mr. Petricoff. He said the product has the same area as washed shop towels and, in most cases, serves the same purpose.

The Leshner towel absorbs more than six times its own weight in grease, oil or water, and may be used for wiping, cleaning, polishing or other industrial uses.

Other advantages according to the company, are that all towels are uniform in size, quality and weight; may be used wet or dry, eliminate hazards of grease-soaked rags; are sanitary and accepted enthusiastically by workers because the towels are manufactured and packaged by machinery; and cost-wise, result in substantial savings for companies.

The flameproof towel is offered in colors of pastels or dark shades and white. Size is 12" x 18" but will be cut to individual specifications, Mr. Petricoff said.

The Leshner flameproof towel costs 1½c each in colors; 2¼c each in white.

"High Freight" Film

The Hale-Nass Corp. has produced a sound, technicolor film which deals with one of today's greatest problems — "High Freight." The film endeavors to show how money may be saved on freight rates by cooperating with trucking facilities in the various territories. The freight problem, it is pointed out, affects the out-of-town buyer, the salesman, and the jobber as well as the manufacturer, who must obtain raw materials.

"High Freight" will be shown in the Hale Nass exhibit, Room 1051, Hotel McAlpin, during Toy Fair. It will not be shown in the company's permanent 1139 showroom at 200 Fifth Avenue.

PRODUCT MINIATURE

Expands... Builds New Toys

TO provide additional assembly line and office space, the Product Miniature Company recently doubled the size of its Milwaukee plant.

The new facilities include a drafting room, office quarters, and an assembly line for the Tru-Miniature electric crawler tractor. This arrangement will take pressure off other assembly lines and make room for new products.

Nearly a dozen new items have been added to the 1954 line of mechanized Tru-Miniatures. Outstanding additions include the Trailways Thru-Liner Bus, Oscar Mayer Wienermobile and the yellow cab.

The new bus is a miniature copy of the latest idea in cross-country transportation—double-decking. It's 18 inches long and comes in authentic 4-color splendor — silver, red, cream and white. It offers exceptional play value: Destination sign can be turned to 16 different cities. Wheels are demountable and interchangeable. Four pieces of miniature luggage and a spare wheel are in the luggage compartment. The bus has a high-impact plastic body, with Tak-a-part motor in rear and a Spin-Torque motor to propell it. It has nine heavy-duty white wheels, chrome hub caps, black vinyl tires, and the front wheels turn either left or right. The steel chassis is interlocking. Box can be used as a bus depot.

New Toy Idea

The Wienermobile is a new idea in toys. It's a scale model of the famous Oscar Mayer car. It also is propelled by a Spin-Torque motor, and as it moves along, "Oscar the Chef" moves up and down in the top of the wiener.

The yellow cab is a 1954 model Plymouth with Spin-Torque motor, yellow cab decals, trunk billboard and taxi sign on top. It has tinted windows, steel chassis, black vinyl tires, silver-lacquered grille, bumpers and lights. It's 1/25 scale of the real taxi.

The deluxe model No. 353 electric crawler tractor with transformer now includes two electric headlights, 18-inch log chain, three logs, new remote control panel, wagon with rear hitch, metal drawbar hitch and a bulldozer blade assembly that snaps on or off.

In addition, the remote-controlled electric crawler tractor is now offered with a control panel, but without a transformer for customers who wish to use their electric train transformer.

This standard model No. 355, without transformer, has headlights, log chain and logs, new remote control panel, metal drawbar hitch and snap-on bulldozer blade assembly.

Unassembled Kits

In addition to the Farmall tractor kit, Product Miniature now offers both the Plymouth sedan and the suburban in unassembled kits. The car kits include all parts necessary to assemble the complete item, plus paints and brush. Assemble it! Paint it! Play with it!

Bill and Paul Ford, owners of Product Miniature Company, point out that the Tru-Miniature lines for 1954 have been almost completely motorized for additional play value and increased sales appeal.

Sales manager Vern Hanson says he feels sure that realism, plus down-on-the-floor toy action, is the kind of wholesome, educational entertainment mothers want for their children. All these new features will help make the Tru-Miniature line more popular than ever.

THE MEN, THE PLACE, THE PRODUCTS. Office and assembly plant of Product Miniature Co., Inc., is located at 2240 South 54th St., Milwaukee, Wisconsin. It is pictured at upper left. Company owners, Paul and Bill Ford (center) study a manufacturer's blueprint. Tru-Miniatures are made to scale, ranging from 1/16 to 1 25 actual size. According to Vern Hanson, sales manager (upper, right), "realism plus down-on-the-floor action will sell more Tru-Miniatures this year than ever before."

Among new Tru-Miniature offerings pictured is the Oscar Mayer wiener-mobile with spin-torque motor. "Oscar the Chef" goes up and down as the car moves. Another is the Trailways double decker bus, the latest idea in cross-country travel. The bus is motorized and has outstanding play value. At lower left is the Plymouth yellow cab with spin-torque momentum motor, taxi sign and billboard area on trunk. To the right of it is the Plymouth sedan kit, one of several kits now offered by the manufacturer. Plymouth kits include motor, paints and brush. The Farmall tractor also is offered in a kit. Another toy with play value is the company's electric crawler tractor (right) which moves in any direction and is a scale model of the big TD-24 International crawler used on earth-moving jobs everywhere.

SYDNEY BLAND asked us to tell the trade that while he will be delighted to see his many buyer friends at his home, socially, his business office is in Room 334, Fifth Avenue Building. The reason for Mr. Bland's urgent message, he told us ruefully, is that in a full page ad in TOYS & NOVELTIES, February issue, his home in Rockville Center was listed as his office. Mr. Bland pointed out that buyers would probably find it more convenient to visit the Fifth Avenue Building office rather than his home.

The aim is to make the benefits about 50 per cent of base pay, which would enable workers to keep on buying goods after losing their jobs, and thus tend to prevent deflation.

Schatz Cuckoo Clocks are driven entirely by realistic pine cone weights and require winding only once every eight days. "Do It Yourself" Book Included with Tool Sets

In a move to tie-in with the sweeping popularity of home craft activities, the New York Toy & Game Mfg. Corp., 200 Fifth Ave., New York, is including a profusely illustrated, 24-page "Do It Yourself" book with all tool sets.

The contents of the book have been influenced by an advisory editorial committee, headed by David Taylor Marke, M. A., editor and publisher of "Family Mechanic," and Dr. David G. Salten, P.H.D., superintendent of schools, Long Beach.

Themed to making things out of wood, the book is written in clear, simple terms that can be grasped even by a seven-year-old. For the sake of easy understanding, all illustrations are pictorial rather than diagrammatic.

According to Herbert Rubin, president, New York Toy & Game Mfg. Corp., the "Do It Yourself" book, as an effort to provide an authoritative and comprehensive project manual, increases the value and practical usefulness of tool sets.

leg length, providing allowance for growth of the child.

The single rear wheel is steered through simple pinion gears and a drag link to the rear axle. Total weight is about equally distributed on all three wheels. A short wheel base enables easy tight turns, and the wide tread front wheels and low center of gravity assure the absolute maximum ground hugging stability.

This low, racy speed job is big; 55 inches overall, 25 inches wide, and 25 inches high. The body is 18 inches wide by 20 inches high. From the top of the vertical fin to the bottom of the seat is 19 inches. The seat is 13½ inches wide. Although this gleaming streamline beauty is big, it weighs only 35 pounds.

This super jet is a sports car, racer, jet plane, rocket, or what have you. Which of these this super jet may be, Inland leaves up to the proud owner's vivid imagination. To each one it will be something different, very real and out-of-this world. For identification, the large vertical fin carries a large "X-9 Super Jet" on each side. On the nose is the proud Inland Manufacturing Corporation I.M. emblem.

The complete Inland line of wheeled goods; the newest Tractall Model, the new Inland Trailer Truck, and the X-9 Super Jet will be displayed at the Inland Exhibit in the Hotel New Yorker. Both Mr. Mann and the company's recently appointed general sales manager, W. A. Rupert, will be in attendance at the Inland exhibit.

Sales are handled through the following representative organizations: Sam Weisman, 200 Fifth Avenue Building, New York City, in the east; Coursey and King, 2263 Peachtree Road, Atlanta, Georgia, the southeast; C. L. Bradford and Associates, 1486 Merchandise Mart, Chicago, Ill., the midwest: McDonald and Shaw, Southland Hotel, Dallas, Texas, the southwest. Representatives for territories not mentioned will be appointed during Toy Fair.

NEW DEVELOPMENT IN WHEELED GOODS MANUFACTURE TO BE INTRODUCED BY INLAND MANUFACTURING CORP., AT TOY FAIR

WHAT is considered to be a milestone in wheeled goods manufacture will be introduced by Inland Mfg. Corp., Buffalo, N. Y. when it unveils its new X-9 Super Jet at the American Toy Fair.

This new play-vehicle, an advanced design created by Inland's president, S. Nelson Mann, will have a complete one-piece Fiberglas molded body. This is said to be the first such application of this miracle fiber glass material to be attempted on a production basis in the toy industry.

Using the same production techniques that have been so widely publicized by General Motors through its rakish new Corvette sports car, and similarly by Kaiser with its Darrin sports car, Inland will offer an entirely new concept in wheeled goods design, performance and production method.

In close cooperation with the fabricating experts of American Plastic Corp., Bainbridge, N. Y. and Owens-Corning, Toledo, Ohio, whose Fiberglas material will be used in the manufacturing operation, Inland has designed a play-vehicle that will capture the interest of wheeled goods manufacturers, as well as the imagination of today's jet-minded, space-conscious youngsters.

As Mr. Mann explains it, "Here, in our X-9 Super Jet, is the future now for children 3 to 10 years old. At the New York Toy Fair, we will show our new out-of-the-future revolutionary X-9 Super Jet for youngsters for the first time. It isn't jet propelled, but one would think so to look at it. It's quite a machine!"

One-Piece Body

The machine itself has a one-piece fibre-glass body which has been carefully designed to take the fullest advantage of the molding possibilities, great strength, durability, and eye appeal of this versatile material. The smooth flowing lines, from the jet nose to the tail exhaust, from the characteristic vertical fin into the cock pit and deep roomy form fitting seat, blend into a body beautiful. Although the high vertical fin gives a striking, speedy appearance in keeping with the streamlined body it was not used for looks alone but for very practical purposes.

First, it is intended to give a comfortable, relaxed position for the youngster in relation to the pedals and steering wheel. By slanting the seat back, it is possible to lower it to within an inch of the full depth of the body, without dropping the pedals below the body. Second, the low seating arrangement provides plenty of room for knee action without bumping the cowl. The youngster sits down in the vehicle and does not have to tug at the steering wheel to get leverage to turn the pedals. The high cowl drapes down into the cock pit to form an instrument panel.

Below the panel an aircraft type open control wheel is mounted securely at the top of a column which is part of the welded steel tubular inchannel chassis.

The two wide front wheels are mounted well back from the nose to bring the axle under the driver's knees. This position provides space for leg and foot room.

The front wheel chain drive propulsion makes possible a short chain and eliminates any steering mechanism to get in the way of the youngster's feet. Six inches adjustment is provided for

JUNIOR BMC EDITION

GOOD NEWS FOR TOY DEALERS

AMF SETS PACE IN WHEEL GOODS FIELD

Mr. W. A. Sipprell, Jr., General Manager of the AMF Wheel Goods Division, with models from the BMC, Junior and Roadmaster lines. With the addition of BMC, AMF now makes wheel goods for everyone from toddlers to teenagers.

BMC, JUNIOR To Combine Promotion Efforts

Effective immediately, AMF JUNIOR trikes and sidewalk bikes and BMC cars, wagons and tractors will share double billing in national advertising. Ads featuring the lines are to appear in LIFE and PARENTS'. In addition, a strong bid will be made directly to the child through full page ads in CHILD LIFE and CHILDREN'S ACTIVITIES.

Backing the national advertising will be unique promotion kits for dealer use. The kits will include: combination fact and lay-away tags for the top JUNIOR and BMC models, point-of-sale display cards, dealer ad mats and preprints of national ads. This dealer material will stress the theme, "Use our convenient Christmas lay-away plan." More complete information on the BMC and JUNIOR Promotion Programs is given on the following pages.

N. G. Wintermantel

Phillip Forman

JUNIOR & BMC Sales Heads Map New Plans

Sales, merchandising and promotion plans occupied N. G. Wintermantel, Gen. Sales Manager of the AMF Wheel Goods Division, and Philip Forman, BMC Sales Manager, in a recent meeting.

When asked to comment on JUNIOR's 1954 sales outlook, Mr. Wintermantel stated, "JUNIOR TOY has a completely restyled line for 1954. Paced by the Sky Trike, the Tow-Trike and the Jack & Jill Sidewalk Bike, we are in the best competitive position in our history. From all indications, 1954 should be the biggest year AMF JUNIOR and its dealers have ever enjoyed."

Mr. Forman, commenting on the BMC picture, said "We not only have an award-winning line, we have a value-packed one, too. By giving boys and girls more of what they want most, at real down-to-earth prices, BMC dealers have a terrific profit potential for 1954."

Addition of BMC Latest Link In Giant AMF Wheel Goods Operation

"The acquisition of BMC Mfg. Corp. puts American Machine & Foundry in a leading position in the juvenile wheel goods field," states Mr. W. A. Sipprell, Jr., General Manager of AMF's Wheel Goods Division.

Already manufacturing such well known lines as ROADMASTER, SHELBY and JUNIOR Trikes and Bikes, the award-winning line of BMC cars and tractors gives AMF a well rounded, integrated wheel goods line.

"Now," continued Mr. Sipprell, "regardless of what the customer wants in juvenile wheel goods, there is an AMF 'better . . . by design' product that will meet his needs perfectly."

The BMC line will be promoted in conjunction with JUNIOR Trikes and Sidewalk Bikes. An important advantage to dealers carrying both lines will be the added force of this combined promotion. By pooling their advertising budgets, the two companies will be able to make millions of additional sales impressions.

With the addition of BMC, AMF gives wheel goods dealers one consistently advertised line for everyone from toddlers to teenagers.

Chicago Toy Dealer Cites Merger Advantages

"The AMF BMC merger means more sales for me," says Ray Marks, owner of the popular Slumberland Juvenile Shop, Chicago. Mr. Marks added, "JUNIOR and BMC have always been top lines. Now that they've joined forces, sales should be even higher. By combining their advertising they'll have more total lineage and a wider readership. In addition, store display material will be both more plentiful and more powerful as a result of the combined effort. It all adds up to this, more customers will be asking for AMF JUNIOR Trikes and Bikes and BMC Cars and Tractors. That means more sales, and more wheel goods profits for me."

Wheel Goods News

GOOD NEWS FOR TOY DEALERS

AMF SETS PACE IN WHEEL GOODS FIELD

Mr. W. A. Sipprell, Jr., General Manager of the AMF Wheel Goods Division, with models from the BMC, Junior and Roadmaster lines. With the addition of BMC, AMF now makes wheel goods for everyone from toddlers to teenagers.

BMC, JUNIOR To Combine Promotion Efforts

Effective immediately, AMF JUNIOR trikes and sidewalk bikes and BMC cars, wagons and tractors will share double billing in national advertising. Ads featuring the lines are to appear in LIFE and PARENTS'. In addition, a strong bid will be made directly to the child through full page ads in CHILD LIFE and CHILDREN'S ACTIVITIES.

Backing the national advertising will be unique promotion kits for dealer use. The kits will include: combination fact and lay-away tags for the top JUNIOR and BMC models, point-of-sale display cards, dealer ad mats and preprints of national ads. This dealer material will stress the theme, "Use our convenient Christmas lay-away plan." More complete information on the BMC and JUNIOR Promotion Programs is given on the following pages.

N. G. Wintermantel

Phillip Forman

JUNIOR & BMC Sales Heads Map New Plans

Sales, merchandising and promotion plans occupied N. G. Wintermantel, Gen. Sales Manager of the AMF Wheel Goods Division, and Philip Forman, BMC Sales Manager, in a recent meeting.

When asked to comment on JUNIOR's 1954 sales outlook, Mr. Wintermantel stated, "JUNIOR TOY has a completely restyled line for 1954. Paced by the Sky Trike, the Tow-Trike and the Jack & Jill Sidewalk Bike, we are in the best competitive position in our history. From all indications, 1954 should be the biggest year AMF JUNIOR and its dealers have ever enjoyed."

Mr. Forman, commenting on the BMC picture, said "We not only have an award-winning line, we have a value-packed one, too. By giving boys and girls more of what they want most, at real down to earth prices, BMC dealers have a terrific profit potential for 1954."

Addition of BMC Latest Link In Giant AMF Wheel Goods Operation

"The acquisition of BMC Mfg. Corp. puts American Machine & Foundry in a leading position in the juvenile wheel goods field," states Mr. W. A. Sipprell, Jr., General Manager of AMF's Wheel Goods Division.

Already manufacturing such well known lines as ROADMASTER, SHELBY and JUNIOR Trikes and Bikes, the award-winning line of BMC cars and tractors gives AMF a well rounded, integrated wheel goods line.

"Now," continued Mr. Sipprell, "regardless of what the customer wants in juvenile wheel goods, there is an AMF 'better . . . by design' product that will meet his needs perfectly."

The BMC line will be promoted in conjunction with JUNIOR Trikes and Sidewalk Bikes. An important advantage to dealers carrying both lines will be the added force of this combined promotion. By pooling their advertising budgets, the two companies will be able to make millions of additional sales impressions.

With the addition of BMC, AMF gives wheel goods dealers one consistently advertised line for everyone from toddlers to teenagers.

Chicago Toy Dealer Cites Merger Advantages

"The AMF-BMC merger means more sales for me," says Ray Marks, owner of the popular Slumberland Juvenile Shop, Chicago. Mr. Marks added, "JUNIOR and BMC have always been top lines. Now that they've joined forces, sales should be even higher. By combining their advertising they'll have more total lineage and a wider readership. In addition, store display material will be both more plentiful and more powerful as a result of the combined effort. It all adds up to this, more customers will be asking for AMF JUNIOR Trikes and Bikes and BMC Cars and Tractors. That means more sales, and more wheel goods profits for me."

THE TABLE TOP STORY

Castelli's already popular table-and-chair sets now get added child appeal! In a whole series of colorful, action-packed table top designs, Castelli injects game appeal, educational value, plus extra merchandising punch! Scenic Western tops for boys. Doll-town designs for girls, pre-school patterns for the small fry! A wide variety to please the most particular customer! The Table Top Story is another example of the aggressive Castelli sales policy, aimed at providing merchandise to encourage that extra sale!

Western Table Top, designed to lure small cowboys and cowgirls, provides the setting for imaginative cowboy-and-Indian adventures. Many familiar locales are depicted, so games may proceed from the Western Village with its hotel, bank, jail, dance hall, general store, and blacksmith shop, to the ranch house or Indian Village, Lost Cave, Bandits' hideout, and move around the action of stagecoach, and the hold-up of a railroad train at a mountain pass.

Pre-School Table Top, with block letters and numbers, planned to help youngsters learn their ABC's. An understanding of numbers is developed through the use of such small-fry fascinations as lollipops, ice cream cones, balls, balloons, marbles, birthday candles. All of this educational design has been set against a background of colors chosen especially for their appeal and interest for youngsters.

Western Table Top, designed to lure small cowboys and cowgirls, provides the setting for imaginative cowboy-and-Indian adventures. Many familiar locales are depicted, so games may proceed from the Western Village with its hotel, bank, jail, dance hall, general store, and blacksmith shop, to the ranch house or Indian Village, Lost Cave, Bandits' hideout, and move around the action of stagecoach, and the hold-up of a railroad train at a mountain pass

Pre-School Table Top, with block letters and numbers, planned to help youngsters learn their ABC's. An understanding of numbers is developed through the use of such small-fry fascinations as lollipops, ice cream cones, balls, balloons, marbles, birthday candles. All of this educational design has been set against a background of colors chosen especially for their appeal and interest for youngsters.

EVINRUDE

The new Big Twin Electric, a 25 h.p outboard motor equipped with a push-button electric starter, and the Fleetwin Aquasonic, a completely new 7.5 h.p unit that is said to be one of the quietest motors of its size ever built, highlight the 1954 line of outboards by Evinrude Motors of Milwaukee.

Heralded as a development that will do for outboard boating what the electric starter did for the automobile, the Big Twin Electric has an auto-type electric starter motor that gets its power from a standard six-volt 100 ampere automobile battery. Both the starter and an electrically operated choke used for "cold" starts are actuated by push buttons in a small panel located on the dash or any other convenient point in the boat.

Used in connection with the Simplex remote throttle, gearshift and steering controls introduced by Evinrude last year, the Big Twin Electric makes possible full remote operation. The user can slip behind the wheel, press the starter button, shift gears to forward or reverse and control the speed from a dead slow troll to 30 or more miles per hour—all with finger-tip ease and without going near the motor.

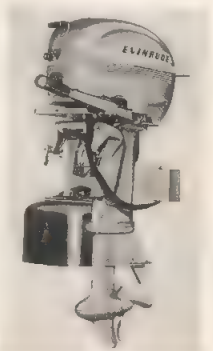
In the Fleetwin Aquasonic the power head is cushioned in resilient mountings that isolate engine vibrations from the boat. Combined with a carburetor silencer to reduce air intake noise, this results in a motor so quiet that normal conversation can be carried on anywhere in the boat with the throttle wide open.

This new "whispering power" motor is easy to carry and handle, weighing only 49 pounds, yet it delivers a full 7.5 h.p.—enough to plane a loaded boat at speeds up to 17 m.p.h. A separate four-gallon Cruis-a-Day Jr. fuel tank gives up to four hours of continuous wide-open operation. Its Auto-Lift hood snaps open and swings up like the hood of a car for easy maintenance and inspection. Throttle and spark controls are synchronized in the steering handle for one-hand operation and a full forward, neutral and reverse gearshift permits starting in neutral and makes docking easy.

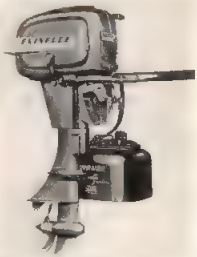
Other items in the 1954 Evinrude line are the standard 25 h.p Big Twin with Simplex manual recoil starter; the 15 h.p. Super Fastwin that has set new standards of performance in the increasingly popular "middleweight" class, the 32-pound, 3 h.p. Lightwin with Fisherman Drive; and Simplex remote controls for use with the Big Twin and Super Fastwin. Some of their features follow:

Big Twin—For largest family boats big runabouts, cruisers and heavy commercial service. Lightest weight per horsepower. Easy to start and handle as a small motor. Speeds from low trolling speed up to 30 miles or better. Gear shift with forward, neutral and reverse Synchronized spark and throttle controls in a steering handle. All controls designed for quick attachment of Simplex remote controls. Separate 6-gallon Cruis-a-Day fuel tank. Optional vacuum fuel supply system for use with larger built-in tanks at no additional cost.

Super Fastwin—Up to 25 m.p.h. on good-sized family and fishing boats. Handles several water skiers, yet it weighs only 67 pounds and trolls smoothly hour after hour. Twin-carburetor silencers to cut down annoying high-frequency noise. Auto-Lift hood for easy accessibility. Full gear shift. Roto-matic spark and throttle controls in steering handle grip. All controls built for quick attachment of Simplex remote control.



Evinrude's Big Twin Electric, a new 25 h.p. alternate-firing twin with built-in electric starter. Starter motor and electric choke are controlled by pushbuttons on the dash



In the new Evinrude Fleetwin Aquasonic a new method of cushioning the power head isolates engine vibrations from the hull, and results in a quieter motor. Power is 7½ h.p. at 4000 r.p.m.

Lightwin—Ideal "take-along" motor. Weighs only 32 pounds yet handles heavy rental boats and gives surprising speed to free-running hulls. Fisherman Drive permits full power operation in thick weeds and bobs over rocks and stumps. Carburetor silencer cuts engine noise. Synchronized spark and throttle control. Full 360-degree steering.

Simplex Remote Controls — Permit steering, shift and throttle control from any seat in the boat. Gearshaft and throttle cables connect to special fittings on Big Twin and Super Fastwin models in 30 seconds without tools. Steering cables attach to steering arm through a spring-loaded lock pin.

JOHNSON MOTORS

Johnson Motors, which boosted output by 50 per cent last year while expanding to the extent of $1,250,000 in new plant space and equipment, has scheduled additional production increases for 1954.

Primary objective at Johnson isn't to build sufficient plant capacity to catch up with demand, however, but to continue developing improvements that conform with the requirements of outboarding America.

Last autumn they introduced a new Sea-Horse 5½ of such quiet operation it received a citation from the National Noise Abatement Council. The year before that it was a remote control with motors pre-engineered for easy installation. Other postwar Johnson innovations have been twist-grip throttle control, full gear shift, separate plug-in fuel tanks and, most recently, the electric-starting 25.

All of these have been aimed at in-

BARR MARINE

The latest and largest of the Barr line of conversions and engines is a new Cadillac V8. At the present writing it is one of the most powerful engines of its size making it ideal for small high speed runabouts and cruisers. It is of the latest design featuring overhead valves, 12-volt ignition, 4-venturi carburetor, high compression, Jabsco pump and Snow Nalstedt reverse and reduction gears.

The specifications are 8 cylinder overhead valve, 90 degree Vee type, 3 13/16 inch bore x 3⅝ inch stroke, piston displacement 331 cubic inches, 210 h.p. at 4150 r.p.m. Overall length direct drive is 48 inches.

Barr is now manufacturing one of the most complete and diversified lines of conversion parts on the market covering the conversion field from Willys to the Cadillac. This line includes cast iron water cooled exhaust manifolds and elbows, water pumps, flame arresters, motor supports, reverse and reduction gears with necessary adapters to fit the various engines.

FLAGSHIP

Flagship Marine Engine Company of Baltimore, Md., has four gasoline engines and one diesel on the market from 66 h.p. to 150 h.p

Model 6-118 is a six-cylinder, L-head gasoline engine developing 118 h.p. at 3600 r.p.m., available in right or left hand rotation, direct drive or reduction drive

Model 4-66 is a four-cylinder, L-head, four-cycle gasoline engine. Bore is 3¼ inch; stroke is 4 inches. Peak horsepower (66) is developed at 3200 r.p.m. It is suitable for runabouts, kit boats, small cruisers and work boats.

Model 6-136 is a six-cylinder, L-head, four cycle, gasoline engine. Bore is 4 inches, stroke is 4½ inch, piston displacement is 320 cubic inches. Model 6-136 has a compression ratio of 7.5 to 1 while model 6-150 (150 h.p.) has a compression ratio of 7.9 to 1. Model 6-136 is available in right and left hand rotation, direct and reduction drive. Both models 6-136 and 6-150 are available with Paragon Hydraulic reverse gear as optional equipment.

Model 6-95D diesel is a six-cylinder, overhead valve, four-cycle engine. Bore is 3⅝ inches, stroke is 4 inches, piston displacement 248 cubic inches. It is of the solid injection type using American Bosch fuel pump, governor and injectors. Engine is fresh water cooled with heat exchanger and expansion tank an integral part of the assembly. This engine is suitable for heavier workboats and for those who operate their boats in long, year 'round service. Available in right and left hand rotation, direct and reduction drive, horsepower output is 95

GM DETROIT DIESEL

The Detroit Diesel Engine Division of General Motors during the year just ended added five new Diesel models to its line of marine propulsion engines Displayed this year for the first time on the East Coast, Detroit Diesel has a new inclined, six-cylinder engine of the "71" series and a new 12-cylinder tandem-twin unit of the "110" series. With these new engines the Division has a varied line of pleasure and work boat Diesels ranging from 54 to 864 horsepower. Also ready for introduction is a new two cylinder, valveless Diesel of the "51" series for use as an auxiliary power unit.

The Division's new inclined six, like its companion the inclined four-cylinder "71", has block and head tipped on its side to attain an overall height of less than 33 inches. It puts a smooth 216 horsepower aboard a pleasure boat and conforms to the new lines now in vogue in pleasure craft design. By extensive use of aluminum alloys throughout the engine a weight of only 10.5 pounds per horsepower has been attained. A matched pair of these engines installed in a realistic hull section are on display.

The new tandem-twin unit consists of two of Detroit Diesel's 6-110 marine engines mounted end-to-end to drive a single propeller shaft. It has an intermittent rating of 530 s.h.p. for large pleasure boats and produces 409 continuous s.h.p. for work boats. It is 68 inches in height and weighs less than 21 pounds per horsepower including its gear box and structural steel base. The tandem arrangement of the engines provides a unit that is easy to service even in relatively small engine rooms

A four-cylinder valveless marine Diesel of the "51" series for pleasure and work boats of 24 feet and up in length is also shown. The weight of this engine as it was introduced last year was 1400 pounds. Today, due to a new and lighter flywheel and flywheel housing, its weight has been reduced almost 10 percent. Also on display is a new motorized cutaway model of the three-cylinder Series "71" engine which does practically everything but talk in demonstrating the internal workings of the G. M Diesel.

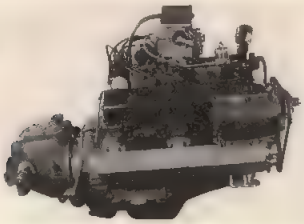
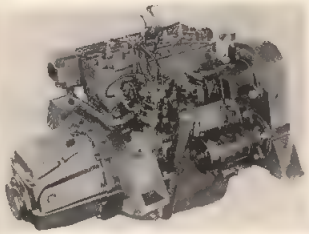
General Motors "6-110" Tandem-Twin propulsion engine is available in both port and starboard rotations with a wide selection of reduction gears. It delivers 530 s.h.p. at 1800 r.p.m. or a continuous, heavy duty s.h.p. of 409 at 1600 r.p.m. With reduction and reverse gear it weighs 11,000 pounds



The Barr Marine Cadillac conversion 8-cylinder OHV 90 degree V8 develops 210 b.p.h. at 4150 r.p.m. Snow Nabstedt reverse gears are built in



The 4-66 Flagship Marine is a new four-cylinder model for 1954. Piston displacement is 133 cubic inches, weight 450 pounds creased comfort and ease of operation. Certainly they have contributed materially to the increasing public acceptability of outboards. A 90-pound housewife now can operate a 25 h.p. outboard runabout with no more physical effort than is required to drive the family car.

Johnson's Sea-Horse Electric 25, newcomer in the firm's 1954 line, is the automatic-starter version of the widely popular Sea-Horse 25. The unit includes motor equipped with bendix-drive starter, control panel for push-button operation of choke and starter, relay box and necessary wiring. It operates from an automotive-type 6-volt battery with 400 to 800 starts without recharging. The manual (pull-cord) starter remains in position for immediate, optional use. Motor features include full gear shift (forward, neutral and reverse), synchronized twist-grip speed control, plug-in 6-gallon Mile-Master fuel tank, and fittings for Johnson's Ship-Master remote-control unit. Weight is 111 pounds; horsepower of 25 is certified by O.B.C.

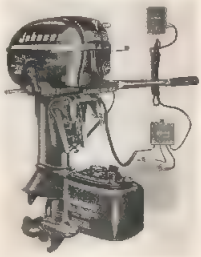
The 1954 Sea-Horse 25 widely used for heavy commercial work, sport runabouts and outboard cruisers, has no basic engineering changes from the 1953 model. Features include neutral, forward, and reverse shifting; fully synchronized twist-grip speed control and fittings for use with Johnson's Ship-Master remote control unit. The Sea-Horse 25 will troll for fishing or step out at more than 30 m.p.h. It is supplied with 6-gallon plug-in Mile-Master fuel tank. Weight is 99 pounds, horsepower 25 certified by O.B.C.

Sea-Horse 10 for 1954 has been re-engineered to include carburetor air intake silencers and the new "up-and-off" motor hood. Gear shift (forward, neutral and reverse) has been standardized on right side of motor in all Johnson models. Sea-Horse 10 is equipped with fittings for ready attachment of Ship-Master throttle-and-shift remote control. Other features are twist grip throttle control, three-way treatment against corrosion, lightweight 3-ring aluminum pistons, and full-range carburetion. Rating of 10 h.p. is certified by O.B.C.

Johnson's Sea-Horse 5½ is a newcomer in outboarding. Outstanding feature is quietness, obtained by the suspension or cushion-drive mounting which absorbs noise-producing vibrations. It has many features additional over the Sea-Horse 5 which it supplants in the Johnson line for 1954. These include full gear range (forward, neutral and reverse), synchronized twist-grip speed control, plug-in 4 gallon Mile-Master fuel tank, "up-and-off" hood which may be completely removed in a few seconds without tools, simplified thrust socket adjustment, automotive-type choke and finger-spread carburetor control dial. Automatic slip-clutch eliminates necessity for shear pins. The new Sea-Horse 5½ weighs 47 pounds, and its horsepower (5½) is certified by O.B.C.

Johnson's Sea-Horse 3 for 1954 features light weight (only 31 pounds) and Angle-matic Drive. The latter is a special type lower unit which gives the propeller weedless and shock-resistant qualities. Angle-matic's streamlined guard slides over underwater obstructions or shoals, and tilts the motor so that damage from impact is virtually impossible. Other features of the Sea-Horse 3 are 360-degree pivot steering, synchronized spark and control lever, and three-way treatment to resist corrosion—plus stainless steel driveshaft, propeller shaft, and underwater screws. Horsepower rating is 3, certified by O.B.C.

The Johnson Sea Horse 5½, a newcomer to the outboard field, is quiet, powerful and light. This low-powered version of the Johnson motor embodies many of the distinctive features which characterize the larger models



This Johnson Sea Horse Electric 25 is the automatic-starting version of the popular 25 h.p. engine. This is another new model this year, bringing the convenance of electric starting to the outboard group. It operates from an automotive-type 6-volt battery

The Scott-Atwater 16 h.p. outboard redesigned for improved appearance and reduction in weight

SCOTT-ATWATER

The first automatic boat bailer in outboard motor history highlights the Scott-Atwater motors for 1954. Called the Bail-A-Matic, it will keep a boat dry as long as the motor is running, whether in forward, neutral or reverse. The bailer will be standard built-in equipment on the entire Scott-Atwater line with the exception of the smallest motor. Sharing the spotlight with the automatic bailer is a redesigned and streamlined lower unit and considerable reduction in noise and vibration on the 5 h.p., 7.5 h.p. and 10 h.p. motors.

The Bail-A-Matic unit employs a new positive displacement vacuum pump which creates a powerful suction as well as an impelling force. This enables it to lift water to a height of six feet at idling speed. A similar pump is used in the cooling system. Both pumps are run by the drive shaft. The cooling system and the power bailer are, however, entirely separate. None of the water being bailed ever enters the motor cooling passages. The bailer, with motor idling, pumps a gallon of water a minute. Maximum capacity is more than 150 gallons an hour.

Streamlining of the lower unit has been accomplished by moving the water pump out of the slip stream and above the water line, and redesigning the horizontal gear shaft to the vertical. Called Aquablade, this thin underwater unit knifes through the water more efficiently, giving additional power for boat propulsion. Additionally, this new lower unit is more weedless than ever before.

Vibration and noise in the 5 h.p., 7.5 h.p. and 10 h.p. Scott-Atwater motors for 1954 have been greatly reduced by mounting the entire power head in a cushion of resilient neoprene. This "pillowed power" cushion acts as a shock absorber between the motor and the boat. It modifies the sounding board effect of the boat, which in the past has contributed to the noise of outboard motors.

For the convenience of those boating in salt water areas, Scott-Atwater provides a flushing port in the lower unit of the 1954 motors. The opening permits cleaning of the cooling system after use in salt water without starting the motor

This year the skirts, or shrouds, on Scott-Atwater motors have been redesigned to give them an even more modern look. All of the motors now have the same appearance. This change in exterior design has resulted in an appreciable reduction in the weight of the 16 h.p. model in addition to greatly improving the appearance of the motor. Rounding out the line is the 3.6 h.p. motor, which in 1954 will have the same gold and green color combination as the rest.

Installation of remote controls on the 1954 models will be a simple matter, for the motor attachment connections are of the snap-on type. These remote controls are designed and manufactured by Scott-Atwater. Either the shift or speed attachment may be purchased separately.

A host of other Scott-Atwater features are part of the 5 h.p., 7.5 h.p., 10 h.p. and 16 h.p. An automatic fuel pump eliminates necessity of a pressurized gas tank and hose. A remote stowaway gas tank makes for greater safety and convenience in cruising. A combination twist-grip spark and throttle control makes it possible for the operator to be facing ahead at all times. Full gear shift makes landing far easier. The neutral-forward-reverse transmission gives cruiser control to the outboard operator

The one-knob choke, carburetor drain and carburetor control is a great convenience. Push the knob in, the motor is choked turn the knob, the fuel mixture is adjusted, rich or lean—turn the knob to the right and push, the carburetor drains and the motor is ready for clean stowage in the back of a car. Four-way carrying handles make it possible for Scott-Atwater to be carried in the most convenient manner

Scott-Atwater's new Bail-A-Matic outboard motor makes sponges, buckets and hand bilge pumps obsolete The automatic bailer handles a gallon of water a minute

Martin's "200" Silver Streak, 20 h.p. at 4500 r.p.m., features a torpedo lower unit and twist-grip control. Weight of this engine is approximately 70 pounds

MARTIN MOTORS

Martin Motors, outboard division of the National Presto Industries of Eau Claire, Wisconsin, announces the introduction of the newest heavy duty motor for 1954—the 20 h.p "200" Silver Liner, a gearshift motor featuring forward, neutral and reverse and a remote auxiliary fuel tank.

Specially designed for the smaller cruiser and family runabouts, the latest addition to the Martin line is the product of four years of engineering, planning and field testing. Weighing 78 pounds, the Silver Liner is equipped for factory-designed remote control operation. The speed and shift controls are grouped on the steering handle in line with the company's policy of "all controls in the palm of your hands."

The Martin line of six models now brackets the family cruiser, high speed runabout, racing, fishing, and general outdoor sports markets.

Martin Motors also announces that in view of new and improved manufacturing techniques instituted this past year at Eau Claire, the price reduction of approximately 15 per cent has been established for the Martin "75," Twist Shift 7½ horsepower, and the "100" Twist Shift 10 h.p. models.

The complete 1954 line, comprising the "20", "45", "75" Twist Shift, "100" Twist Shift, "200" Silver Streak and the "200" Silver Liner features easy starting, perfect trolling, almost instantaneous acceleration, and exceptionally low noise level. Martin's exclusive features include mechanically controlled poppet valves, inboard swivel, vertical stern adjustment, and a full year guarantee. Since October 1951, all Martin outboard motors have been guaranteed for one full year against any defect in workmanship or material

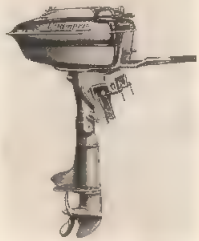
CHAMPION MOTORS

Champion Motors Company, P.O. Box 875, Minneapolis, Minn., are looking forward to a higher production of their Jubilee Champion outboard motor line in 1954.

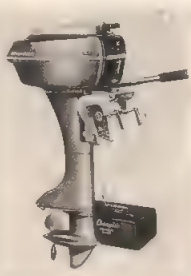
Ranging in horsepower from 3.5 to 15, the one and two-cylinder Champion motors feature such innovations as synchronized 4-in-hand control for easy starting, reverse, neutral and propeller control; gear shift or Hydro-drive; swing-into-boat lower units; removable Ez-Off hood which gives easy access to essential motor parts and rubber mountings which isolate vibration.

For the racing set Champion also produces the Jubilee Hot-Rods. These motors are registered and may be used in JU, AU and BU events.

Other motors produced by Champion are the Voyager from 3.5 h.p. (one cylinder) to 15 h.p. (two cylinders); the Majestic from 3.5 h.p. (one-cylinder) to 15 h.p. (two cylinders) and the B. F. Goodrich Sea Flyer from 5 to 15 h.p. (two cylinders).



The Champion 2M Guide model develops 3½ h.p.



The Jubilee Champion 6M-4D outboard is a 15 h.p. alternate firing twin, with Hydro-drive hydraulic clutch

Patent No. 2,437,015

Also Patent Des.-167,464

In November, 1952, issues of Industry Trade Journals, you were advised that three suits have been filed in U. S. District Courts.

On December 5, 1952, final decree for the plaintiffs was entered by consent in the U. S. District Court of the eastern District of Arkansas, Western Division, Civil Action No. 2461, in equity for patent infringement, William Baltz, et al, vs. ....., ..., and ..... .*

Paragraph 7 of said decree states:

> "That a perpetual injunction issue out of and under the Seal of this Honorable Court, directed to the Defendants * * * restraining them and each of them and they and each of them be and are hereby permanently enjoined and restrained from directly or indirectly making, using, selling or offering to sell, except under license, any suspended horses embodying the inventions disclosed and claimed in said Letters Patent No. 2,437,015 or in any other way from infringing thereon."

The other two suits are pending in the U. S. District Court for Northern District of Illinois, Eastern Division, and have since been consolidated into one action.

Another suit has been filed in the U. S. District Court of Massachusetts against a department store and a manufacturer.

Attorneys secured signed agreement from a North Central State manufacturer to stop production of alleged infringing horse.

We will continue to take consistent action against alleged infringers whether manufacturer, seller or agent.

The above is in reply to the inquiries received from our customers as to our position regarding various alleged infringing devices.

FAIR TRADED TO PROTECT YOU. We are committed to a policy of definitely enforcing our Fair Traded prices in all states where it is legal to do so. Our attorneys have handled several violators this past year and they will be called upon whenever necessary to relieve you from unscrupulous or unfair trade Practices.

Educational, constructive, built to give years of fun

Model Toys are authorized working models of famous construction and fire-fighting equipment. And like the big machines, they're built to stand up under roughest, toughest treatment, giving youngsters more years of fun, while teaching the importance of quality that endures.

Model Toys have welded heavy-gauge steel bodies, famous-make real rubber tires, and baked automotive enamel finishes for greater protection against rust. In every true detail of construction, Model Toys are built to look and work just like the real machines.

A No. 2006. Model ADAMS ROAD GRADER, leader in the line for years. An exciting toy for "backyard engineers." Scrapes ground smooth for their miniature building construction, grades and banks their small-scale highways and airport runways. Length, 26"; weight, 12 lbs. Fair Trade Price — $13.95.

B No. 2007. Model UNIT MOBILE CRANE, the toy for the older boy. Its clam-shell scoops up earth or sand, swings wide on the boom, dumps loads for other Model Toys. Boom, clam-shell and cargo hook are crank-controlled from cab. Length, 12"; boom length, 19"; weight, 7 lbs. Fair Trade Price — $13.95.

C No. 2009. Model EUCLID BOTTOM DUMP TRUCK, basic toy for children of all ages. Takes loads from the Model CRANE or Model BUCKET LOADER, hauls them away and dumps them with the flick of a lever. Length, 27"; weight, 11 lbs. Fair Trade Price — $13.95.

D No. 2010. Model AMERICAN-LA FRANCE PUMPER, the toy for action. Rubber hose connects to pump-operated tank — shoots stream of water high in the air. Equipped with scaling ladder, hard suction hose, fire extinguishers and bell. This toy and the Model AERIAL LADDER form a complete fire department. Length, 18"; weight, 7 lbs. Fair Trade Price — $15.95.

E No. 2011. Model HEILINER-SCRAPER. Powerful, triple-duty earth mover. Scoops up earth and loads itself — hauls and dumps loads for the Model ROAD GRADER to level or for the Model CRANE to pick up. Length, 29"; weight, 13 lbs. Fair Trade Price — $15.95.

F No. 2012. Model CATERPILLAR* D6 TRACTOR and BULLDOZER. A best seller in just one year. Rugged replica of the giant "Cat." Levels areas for miniature construction jobs, cuts down banks of earth for the Model HEILINER to load and haul away. Authentic bulldozer treads operate independently for sharp turns. Length, 15"; weight, 7 lbs. Fair Trade Price — $12.95.

G No. 2013. Model BARBER-GREENE BUCKET LOADER, Leading toy for '53 — the completely new reproduction of the latest Barber-Greene machine. Its "spirals" force sand or gravel into piles for loading. Chain-driven buckets bite into the piles, shoot up to the conveyor belt which takes the loads and dumps them. Loading unit lowers for digging, raises for road clearance in travel. Length, 22"; weight, 10 lbs. Fair Trade Price — $18.95.

H No. 2014. Model AMERICAN-LA FRANCE AERIAL LADDER, completely redesigned, with new and improved equipment — the most authentic model fire engine on the market. New features include die-cast aluminum construction of the extension ladder; spring action to make "hydraulic" lifts work; improved construction of revolving ladder base and auxiliary ladders. Extension jacks have been added to brace truck when aerial ladder is raised over side. A thrill-packed toy in action. Length, 33"; height (ladder extended), 42"; weight, 11 lbs. Fair Trade Price — $19.95.

104 "Hit" Toys to be Featured in 13-Page LIFE Section

By DAVID L. RAND
Account Supervisor
Gray Advertising Agency, Inc.

THERE ARE very few retailers left in America who will not agree with the premise that people in our country are sold on nationally advertised brands. The increase in brand advertising every year by important manufacturers continues. As each new medium of advertising has developed, such as radio, and then television, important additional sums of money were appropriated by manufacturers to maintain their competitive position in the various new media.

Retailers admit that it is much easier to sell merchandise on which the public has been preconditioned by advertising, than to try to sell "unknown brands."

Most retailers today are aware, too, of the fact that the public is willing if not anxious to buy via the use of self-selection. This is more than a slight trend, it is actually a growing change-over in the physical make-up of old stores and a definite pattern in the layout of new stores to achieve intelligent self-selection. Many retailers who have studied this situation have found out that the public actually buys more and higher-priced merchandise when allowed to purchase by themselves, than when a salesperson tries to guess a price category for any particular individual.

Therefore it is obvious that with self-selection becoming more and more important, the use of nationally advertised merchandise actually is a necessity as the public must recognize the merchandise it buys as nationally advertised. It then follows that the more store traffic, the more sales of advertised items.

The more successful chains have already found out that every square foot of space must pay its own way. They have proved in a scientific manner that toys are one of the most important traffic builders in their stores. In fact, variety chains now admit that toys are their number one category. Drug chains and independents have been adding toys for the last five years and have been doing an increasingly large volume with them.

The 104 toys pictured elsewhere in this issue are among the most heavily advertised toys in the United

Toys featured in the LIFE Promotion

. . . 13-Page LIFE Section

States for Christmas-time 1954. The promotion that is behind these toys includes:

A. A giant, 13 consecutive full page advertisement in the November 22 1954, issue of Life Magazine. This will be the largest individual advertisement ever to run in Life

B. The 104 toys will be featured every day for about two weeks on coast-to-coast television

C. A two-full-page ad will appear in the November 22 issue of the Christian Science Monitor selling this audience and dominating that particular issue. In fact, all retailers reading this may tie up with this insertion in the Monitor, as it will include a coupon addressed to the nearest listed retailer who has the toys and any retailer may be listed for an exceedingly nominal charge by calling the nearest office of the Monitor

D. Over 1,000,000 lines of newspaper advertising are expected to be run again in 1954 at Christmas-time by all types of retailers, including department stores, toy stores, hardware stores, chain stores, etc., featuring just these 104 Life-advertised toys. In 1952 and 1953 over one million lines in each were run on the basis of fewer toys.

E. Thousands of store windows and thousands of interior displays will feature these 104 toys. Obviously all this will make an impression on the buying public throughout the United States and should make it easier for the independent retailer not only to tie up with this biggest-ever promotion run in the country, but to move merchandise quickly and on a full mark-up. It also should promote important extra store traffic for the retailers.

F. A most important addition has been made to this year's promotion. The first page of the 13-page section (making a 14th) will feature a list composed of one store in each city, exclusively, where the 104 Life toys can be purchased. This tremendous opportunity will be on a first-come, first-served basis. Interested retailers should write to the author, David L. Rand, at Grey Advertising Agency, 166 W. 32 Street, New York 1 N. Y.

This promotion has five years of proven success as far as bringing in traffic and multiple sales with full mark-up and profit are concerned. Notice some of the quotes from retailers of all types who tied up in 1953:

"We are really sold on Life advertising in our toy department. Frankly, we feel we couldn't wisely do without Life displays when toys appear in the magazine." Herb Chase, The White House, San Francisco

"Life toy advertising continues to be one of the most effective pre-selling aids that we have yet exploited. To promote it, we use windows, interior displays, television, radio, and newspaper advertising. With such a combination of local push with national backing like Life the result is what you'd expect: a resounding success." Dick Fischel, Lit Brothers, Philadelphia.

"There is no other program to which Sterling, Lindner Davis gives this type of wrap-up. That is one indication of how we feel about the American Toy advertising that appears in Life."—Mark Jonas, Sterling, Lindner Davis Co., Cleveland

"Results of our Life tie-in have been gratifying. We have had to reorder as many as 2—3—4 times on several of the Life items."—Jack Brennon, Morehouse-Fashion Columbus.

"Life ads are always great pullers. This ad was a wonderful help to mothers who couldn't get out to shop since they could call the store, order directly from the ad in Life, and be assured of receiving exactly what they wanted. . . . I am going to tie-in heavily with the advertisement next year."—Nellie Staugler, Elder & Johnston, Dayton

"We opened our toy department for Christmas on November 7th, and by Thanksgiving we had to reorder on 50 per cent of the items in the Life Toy ad. The pulling power of this ad proved to be tremendous and the boost it gave our sales makes me hope that we will have the opportunity of tying in next year too."—Harry G. Solomon, Kern's, Detroit

"We had a tremendous response from people in our area to the Advertised-in-Life windows and double truck ad which we ran in the San Diego Union. It is obvious to us that a tie in of this sort with Life does a great deal towards capitalizing on the local influence of a terrific national campaign."—Richard Chase, Walker's, San Diego

"The results of our window tie in with the Life ad were excellent. The window display created much interest and store traffic. There's no doubt about it. Life does a great pre-selling job."—Mr. Bergman, Delaware Plaza Toy Shop, Buffalo

American toy sales in our store were up in sales about 10 per cent this season. We attribute a great deal of the success of these sales to the fact that we . . . had Life tie-ins to use. People were sold on the toys before they came into the store." Bob Johnson, Bob's Toyland, Oakland

You may well ask "What do we have to do to take advantage of this promotion?" It is very simple:

A. Plan now to buy these 104 toys immediately from your wholesaler.

B. Plan now to buy 1,000 or more (in units of 1,000) of the wonderfully effective, hard-selling, envelope enclosure size catalogs which are available to you at but $20 per thousand including your imprint. These envelope enclosure catalogs reproduce all 104 toys as they appear in Life and can be used in four ways—as envelope enclosures to ride with charge bills at the regular postage; as self-mailers with a 1½¢ stamp; as package stuffers, and as counter give aways.

C. Plan now to buy one or more of the 86-piece point-of-sale kits which are available at very nominal price. Bought individually they are only $2 each, in quantities of two or more they are $1.50 each.

Use the handy coupon in the trade ad in this issue to order your tie-up material with this promotion. And again, contact your wholesaler immediately for these toys, so that you, too, can take advantage of all the profit possibilities in this largest-ever Life toy promotion.

Set front wheels to right or left... then toy will circle

This sturdy clock-spring motor, using a 10-ft. spring, is something entirely new in free-wheeling motors. It permits the toy to be played with both as a pull toy and a wind-up toy. Designed in our own research department by our own engineers, it is manufactured exclusively by STRUCTO. Performs approximate 60-foot runs at slow simulated truck speeds. Severe break-down tests have proven that this fine "Fluid-Action" motor will outlast the many years of play value in these durable wind-up toys.

Children of all ages like Structo Toys

Because they're "Child Conditioned"

STRUCTO TOYS ARE SAFE TOYS

BUILT TO LAST A CHILD-TIME

Parents like the many built-in safety features of STRUCTO toys. They know that children cannot hurt themselves on these super-safe playthings. There are no sharp edges to cut or scratch the busy, prying fingers of those "junior truckers and road-building men". Edges are rolled for maximum safety. Moving parts are carefully shielded. Although these safety precautions add to manufacturing costs, STRUCTO will continue to make "the safest toys for American boys". You'll find STRUCTO America's finest quality-price line of toys.

DIE-CAST ALUMINUM CABS and CHASSIS

Cabs and chassis on STRUCTO'S series 600, 700 and 800 are made of durable die-cast aluminum. This lightweight, yet sturdy, metal makes a practical, serviceable toy . . . withstands long hours of rugged playtime use and is virtually indestructible. All bodies on the above series are of heavy-gauge steel.

HEAVY-GAUGE STAMPED STEEL BODIES

Only highest quality, heavy-gauge steel is used in the manufacture of STRUCTO toys. All STRUCTO toys are of spot-welded construction for added strength and rigidity. They are made to withstand rough handling and to "last a child-time" of day-after-day play.

FAITHFULLY-SCALED REPRODUCTIONS

In every detail, STRUCTO "Live-Action" toys are accurate models of their real-life counterparts. Fenders, bumpers, even grills are just like full-sized equipment. Little wonder that children like them so well. They're "Child-Conditioned" in every way.

HIGH GLOSS BAKED ENAMEL FINISH

Infra-red baked enamels, in vivid, child-appealing colors, are used on all STRUCTO toys. These attractive finishes, highly resistant to chipping and scratching, are made possible by STRUCTO'S large conveyor-fed, infra-red enamel ovens. Another fine feature.

14-GAUGE STEEL STRAP REINFORCING

Wherever necessary, 14 gauge steel strapping is used to reinforce bodies and assure greater strength for even the roughest play. Another reason why STRUCTO quality-price toys are such outstanding dollar-for-dollar values. Feature them for fast sales and profits.

GENUINE RUBBER TIRES ON ALL TOYS

Solid rubber tires with honest-to-goodness heavy-duty truck treads are standard on all STRUCTO trucks. The No. 105 Steam Shovel has rubber tractor treads. Realism is thus added to STRUCTO toys that increases their play-value. Parents also like this feature.

Challfont

world renowned

watches and chronometers

from 50 to 500 dollars

the great Swiss family Ditisheim has played a stellar role in the development and production of the world's finest precision watches and marine chronometers. Its contribution to the science and art of watchmaking is attested by many medals, certificates and personal honors won in the international exhibitions of long ago and the modern fiercely competitive performance tests of the Horological Institutes of Switzerland. By its renowned competitors and its famous customers, the House of Ditisheim, now in its fifth generation, is unanimously accorded a position of honor second to none. Sold direct to selected jewelers, their watches carry the name Vulcain; sold to distributors they carry the name Challfont Medalist.

At the factory in La Chaux de Fonds, is a treasured possession . . . a guest book of those who have come to marvel at craftsmanship and pay homage to genius. It contains letters of commendation and wonderment from kings and diplomats, generals and admirals, Nobel Prize-winning scientists and explorers . . . and a host of other "VIPs" from all over the world.

On the following pages is a distinguished collection of celebrated Challfont Watches and Chronometers . . . unsurpassed in beauty unexcelled in precision and performance.

The officially certified Challfont Medalist Chronometer is a far more accurate timekeeper than most men require. With it a man could guide a stratocruiser, navigate a sea-going yacht or control a radio network. Yet it is not an extravagance, if one considers that for a moderate investment a man may carry on his wrist, for life, one of the greatest mechanical marvels of our day . . . a timekeeper that rivals astronomic accuracy. Such super-accurate performance is possible only because of literally thousands upon thousands of inspections, and inviolate adherence to the microscopic tolerances of 1/25,000 and 1/250,000 of an inch. (See note *.) Each Challfont Medalist Chronometer is accompanied by an individual, registered certificate from the Official Swiss Horological Observatory.

Challfont Medalist Watches are of chronometric precision. They are made with the same care and with the identical inspections that are lavished on chronometers. During production, watches are taken out of series at random, by impartial officials of the Swiss Horological Observatory, and checked for precision. In these important tests, Challfont Medalist Watches have received the highest awards. Challfont Medalist Watches are less expensive than Challfont Chronometers because they are not individually rated, registered and certified. (Note: formerly any movement of chronometer precision could be called a chronometer. Now the Swiss Federation permits the use of that term, only if each watch is individually certified.)

Challfont Watches are also available at popular and highly competitive price levels. In style, performance and dollar for dollar value they are unsurpassed. A wide selection of the newest models is offered for your approval. They are fully guaranteed and may be serviced, if necessary, by any good jeweler, anywhere in the world.

Basic Construction Features

All Challfont Watches have 17 ruby jewels, Incabloc shock-resisting balance wheel assemblies, unbreakable mainsprings (guaranteed for life under any and all extremes of climatic conditions) and anti-magnetic hairsprings. (Note: The current fad to promote movements having more than 17 jewels is frowned upon by Swiss officialdom as "meaningless window-dressing." There are only 17 points at which jewels can minimize friction or wear.)

What is a Chronometer?

* The nearest approach to astronomic time is found in the chronometer . . . a watch approved by an official Swiss Horologic Institute after testing under extremes of heat, cold, positions and isochronism. Each movement is individually observed and its deviations (even though they be but a few seconds a month) are officially recorded on the certificate that accompanies each chronometer.

What 1/250,000 of an inch means

1/250,000 of an inch . . . can you picture what this means? This catalog is one inch thick. It contains about 340 sheets. Each sheet, therefore, measures 1/340 of an inch. If it were possible to make a sheet of paper only 1/250,000 of an inch thick, it would take 735 sheets (tightly compressed) to be as thick as the one sheet you are now reading!!! It is faithful adherence to microscopic tolerances such as this . . . on every piece . . . on every jewel . . . on every bearing . . . that the super-accuracy of Challfont Watches is achieved.

HERE ARE SOME FACTS ABOUT WARDS DOLLS TO HELP YOU IN MAKING YOUR SELECTION

OVER 100 DOLLS FROM WHICH TO CHOOSE. Carefully selected from the standpoint of quality in materials and workmanship. Wards work closely with leading manufacturers in planning all details, to bring you the finest available in dolls.

DOLL BODIES. Baby dolls are made of soft plastic or latex stuffed with cotton, have soft, life-like vinyl plastic heads, the finest quality made. Soft molded rubber is used for drinking-wetting dolls. Girl dolls that stand or walk are made of hard plastic, lightweight, almost unbreakable, permit finer modeling.

EYES may be painted, plastic inset or moveable sleeping eyes. Best sleeping eyes are Glassene (celluloid iris over a steel base) with "real" lashes. Lashes on inexpensive dolls are painted on.

CLOTHING varies in fabric, fitting and finishing. Finest dolls have clothing of best quality fabrics; trim and finishing is detailed, dresses have snap fasteners or button closings.

DOLL WIGS. All Wards dolls wigs (except on miniatures) are made of Saran—a synthetic product that has the sheen and texture of beautiful human hair. It can be washed, set and curled. Girl dolls on these two pages have wigs of long strands of Saran, firmly stitched to a cloth foundation. Many baby dolls have "rooted" Saran hair (see Page 140), which won't pull out.

PLEASE SEE BACK COVER FOR AMERICAN FLYER ENGINES

Worm-Drive Motor

When you buy an American Flyer train EVERY locomotive has a powerful worm drive electric motor. Not just a few. Not just the higher-priced sets. ALL of them. American Flyer motors are so precisely made that tolerances of .003 of an inch, or 1/10 the diameter of a human hair, is standard practice!

REAL Knuckle Couplers

American Flyer Knuckle couplers not only look real in operation, no matter how slowly or fast they also LOOK right because they are scale size. A built-in spring opens the knuckle when the American Flyer No. 704 Manual or No. 706 Remote Control uncoupler is operated. American Flyer Authorized Service Stations are equipped to make the change over from your present American Flyer Link-type coupler to the new Knuckle Coupler for a nominal charge.

PULL-MOR Power

There's never been anything like it in the electric train business. Only American Flyer has it! With enough cars to fill a mile, American Flyer steam locomotives will pull up to FORTY freight or passenger cars on level grades, like a mountain goat! No other make can come even close to matching this amazing feature.

The finest electric train power controller you can buy! Has features never before incorporated in transformers and with its giant capacity you can run two trains at different speeds on separate loops of track, or FOUR trains (two running at same speed) on four separate layouts. Has full directional control; when train stops it will start up again without going into reverse first. Two panel meters indicate voltage—one for each control. JET ENGINES and MARINE ENGINES

ACs with Patented CORALOX Insulator are Built for Both!

The CORALOX Insulator of the AC starter-plug used in jet planes must withstand terrific temperatures. This fact is important to boat owners because the insulator of the AC Spark Plugs used in marine engines is of the same composition as that used on the jet plug.

AC Spark Plugs are the only plugs with patented CORALOX Insulator, insuring faster starting—smoother firing throughout your engine's speed range. CORALOX keeps plugs cleaner—at any temperature—in any kind of weather, because CORALOX resists the formation of oxide and carbon coatings that fouled up earlier types of insulator material.

Remember, you must have peak plug performance to get peak engine performance.

Bradford Novelty Offers Tips on Picking and Trimming Xmas Trees

As a service to parents and other adults, in time for the Christmas holidays, Bradford Novelty Company, Cambridge, Mass., has issued the following advice for trimming:

"Your tree this Christmas will make you even happier if you know that the children will be protected, as well as made glorified by its brilliant beauty. Follow these instructions carefully with your Safety Christmas Tree. First, avoid any opportunity of toppling or tipping by purchasing a firm tree with a steady, weight-balanced and by using metal trunk grippers. Be sure to use string, not hooks, in tying on your unbreakable ornaments.

"Prevent any danger of fire, and save yourself money, too, by making this fire-preventive solution at home yourself. For a six-foot tree, mix a solution of one gallon of water, four ounces of boric acid powder and seven ounces of borax, and then spray on tree.

"And as the all-important finisher, trim the tree with unbreakable plastic Christmas ornaments. Look for the word unbreakable when you buy. Gay and brilliantly artistic ones are manufactured with toddlers' safety in mind by the Bradford Novelty Company, pioneers in this field. In both beauty and safety, these ornaments are incomparable. In beauty, they are as sparkling and radiantly bright as glass—even though they are unbreakable, and even more so, in the fact that many of the items that are made in this unbreakable plastic cannot be made in glass. They are shrewdly plated, or have high-gloss metallic finishes which give them a shining but the look of plastic. But in addition they possess one big advantage of plastic—the quality of being unbreakable. When glass ornaments are dropped, they break and shatter, but when unbreakables drop, they merely bounce, to the children's delight, and they also serve them as toys long after the Christmas season is but a lovely memory."

HARRIE C. WHITE, FORMER TOY ASS'N PRESIDENT, DIES

PLAYTHINGS regrets to report the death of Harrie C. White, former president of the Toy Manufacturers of the U.S.A., Inc., on September 24 [illegible] in North Bennington, Vt.

Mr. White was actively interested in the association from its inception, serving as a director from 1917 through 1919, and again from 1924 through 1927. He was elected vice-president in 1926 and [illegible] 1927.

Harrie C. White

In 1933 Mr. White was again elected a director for a three-year term.

As president of the H. C. White Company, makers of the "Kiddie Kar," Mr. White was recognized throughout the industry as an outstanding personality with keen judgment and strict integrity.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Sue L. Mattson White; three daughters, Mrs. Kendall Rich, Mrs. Arthur Farley and Mrs. Theodore H. Thomas; two brothers, Ray White of Yonkers, N. Y., and Clarence W. White; and two sisters, Mrs. Harry Riemann and Mrs. Hans Friedrich.

TOY WOMEN'S ASS'N PLANS RAFFLE DRAWING DEC. 14

At the October 19 meeting of the Toy Women's Association further details were discussed in the plan to raise money for toys for underprivileged children, a project that was first conceived and suggested last spring.

Part of the proceeds from the association's raffle, the drawing for which will be held on December 14, will be used to finance a Valentine's Day Party for a children's ward in one of the larger hospitals.

The fund-raising activities of the association, it is announced, are not intended, however, to preclude the donation of toys by toy manufacturers. All such donations will be gratefully received and acknowledged, states Irene Levy, president.

The association's membership drive is still under way. Women in executive capacities in the industry—in manufacturing, selling or buying—are eligible. Those wishing to apply should communicate with Irene Levy at the Marvin Kaplan offices at 200 Fifth Avenue, New York City, who will pass their applications on to the Membership Committee for [illegible].

NOMA OUTDOOR LAMP POSTS EXPRESS "SEASON'S GREETINGS"

The large (50") full-color lamp posts illustrated here carry a cheerful Christmas message. Products of Noma Lites, Inc., 55 West 13 Street, New York City, they are [illegible] illuminated with five C7½ candelabra base lamps in each post. A simulated snow-capped lantern top and base promise to lend an "old-fashioned" Christmas charm.

Suitable for use in the doorway or on the lawn, the posts come with a four-foot lead cord with an add-on plug and are easy to install, the manufacturer reports. A standard package contains one pair of posts.

Parker's Hollywood "Go" Given Window by Schwabacher-Frey

Hollywood "Go," newest game in the world-known Parker Brothers line, was featured recently in a window display by the retail store of Schwabacher-Frey Company, 735 Market Street, San Francisco. A novel board game, it is reported to appeal to all ages. Both skill and luck play a part.

Miniature Masterpieces Added to Revell's Line of Quick Construction Kits; 3-Kit Pack Offered

Miniature Masterpieces, the prize winning series of plastic 'Collectors' Editions in Hobby Kits," are now part of the Revell line of Quick Construction Kits, according to an announcement by Lewis H. Glaser, Revell president.

'Revell engineers and research experts, who checked the Miniature Masterpieces' series, report that the absolute authenticity of each detailed vehicle kit qualifies it for Revell's expanding group of authentic antique and modern autos, jet fighter planes, bombers, contemporary ships, sailing vessels and oldtime fire engines. Ben Lench, former president of Miniature Masterpieces, will continue in a supervisory capacity," Mr. Glaser revealed.

Under Revell management, plans are under way for the introduction of even more elaborate models, beginning with a new, more complete kit of the State Coach of England, followed by a Western Cruck Wagon and a separate kit of plastic Western figures made to the same scale. A cleverly designed three-kit gift pack has also been prepared for the series, now to be known as Revell Miniature Masterpieces.

Inspired by the success of Miniature Masterpieces' initial model last year—an exact replica of the gold and scarlet State Coach most recently used at the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth II—Revell will have ready this month a kit of the same Coach augmented with eight royal Windsor gray horses, four officially uniformed postilions, and seated figures of Queen Elizabeth and Philip, Duke of Edinburgh. Packaged in the same colorful style that won Miniature Masterpieces the Model Industry Association First Prize for Vehicle Packaging this year, the new State Coach will carry the Revell Authentic Kit trademark and retail at $1.29. Made-up models of the coach, figures and horses are also available.

Included with the easy-to-handle plastic parts are step-by-step instructions for assembly and decoration of the Coach, and a printed account of Queen Elizabeth's coronation and the vehicle's historical role.

Revell's new Miniature Masterpieces gift package includes the Western kits in addition to a kit of paints, thinner, brush and cement for finishing the models. Now being shipped for Christmas sales, the attractive combination package retails at $3.95.

BLACK HEADS MERCHANDISING DEPT AT RAND McNALLY

Hurd Whitney, who has resigned his position as head of Rand McNally's Merchandising Department, will be replaced by Wallace B. Black, formerly head of the company's low price book department. The two departments—low price book and merchandising—are to be merged into a single merchandising department with Mr. Black as manager.

Wallace B. Black

In his new capacity Mr. Black will continue to direct publication and distribution of Rand McNally's various lines of inexpensive books. At the same time he will take over Mr. Whitney's duties of expanding distribution of all Rand McNally products in the various mass markets.

CONVERTIBLE TENT-WADING POOL PLACED ON MARKET BY SNYDER

A versatile outdoor number is currently being offered by Snyder Manufacturing Company, Inc., New Philadelphia, Ohio. The item, a $5.95 (suggested) retailer, converts from a carnival tent to a wading pool "in a matter of minutes."

The small tent, shown here, can be hung from a tree, a clothes line, or from basement rafters, or laid over a card table. To make the conversion to a wading pool, all that's necessary is to fold under the side walls

Fabricated of heavy-gauge Ultron vinyl film, the combination wading pool and tent includes a rope, pennants and a repair kit.

Storage, the manufacturer states, represents no problem. After the youngster's finished with it, the unit can be stored in a carton or box approximately 10" by 10" by 3". Weight of the item is two pounds.

22-Foot, 9,950-Gallon Pool Tops Doughboy's 1955 Line

Survival-suited swimmers test Doughboy's family pool.

Spurred on by the growing interest in the new type of portable, inflatable plastic swimming pool which Doughboy Industries introduced just two years ago, the plastics division of Doughboy plans to go into 1955 with a pace-setting summer line.

This was disclosed when Doughboy unveiled its 1955 line of toys and pools at the company's fall sales meeting November 1 at the Edgewater Beach hotel in Chicago. Heading the list is a new king-sized family pool—22 feet in diameter, three-and-a-half feet deep and with a capacity of 9,950 gallons. The pool will retail for $350.

Some of the other newcomers in the 1955 summer line, all with a lifetime factory guarantee, include: Rigid frame pools with corner seats and showers, new swim vests for children from 1 to 16, forti-plyed plastic covers for all family pools, welded tubular steel ladders for the family pool, swim paddles for children, and a new water toy named "Aqua-Pup."

A. J. Miller, Jr., vice-president of Doughboy's plastics division, and his associates from the company, introduced the new line to the firm's sales representatives.

Speaking of the new lifetime factory guarantee, Doughboy officials stated: "Each Doughboy toy and pool is fabricated of the finest materials available and is thoroughly inspected and tested before it leaves the factory.

"Each is guaranteed against any defects of workmanship and materials. Should any repairable damage occur any time during the lifetime of the product, it will be repaired without cost at the factory." Doughboy spokesman pointed out that this guarantee protects a store's reputation for selling quality products.

Speakers at the sales meeting included E. J. Cashman, president of Doughboy Industries; R. C. Drury, executive vice-president; Joseph A. Ferris, vice-president, public relations; and John Lamb of the Batten, Barton, Durstine and Osborn, advertising agency. Presentation of toys was handled by LeRoy Olson and Walter Fraipont.

Doughboy's line of family swimming pools has three other models besides the 22-foot number. One is 18 feet in diameter, another 12 feet and a third 8½ feet; the prices are $200, $100, and $50 respectively.

There are four new rigid frame pools and they are priced at $35, $20, $15 and $14. These pools are of an all-new design and construction, and the frame is made of 1⅛ inch, 20 gauge tubular steel, which gives 30 per cent additional strength without adding shipping weight. It has an exclusive interlocking sleeve construction which eliminates need for bolts and nuts. This is said to make the pools easy to assemble and store

Each pool is equipped with heavy gauge metal corner seats which clip to the frame of the pool. The liner is made of vinyl impregnated heavy duty canvas which offers high resistance to wear, abrasion, puncture and deterioration, the manufacturer asserts

The liners are gaily decorated. Each has a drain plug of molded vinyl which accommodates a standard sized garden hose. The pools come with a complete kit including a repair kit, assembly instructions and a die cast aluminum shower designed for use with the hose

TELL SELL'S LUNENFELD AUTHORING TOY ARTICLES

Norman A. Lunenfeld, president of Tell Sell Corporation, 200 Fifth Avenue, N.Y.C., advises that in addition to selling toys to chain stores, he has an annual contract with United Features Syndicate to write a series of five articles on toys for their subscribers. Since United Features subscribers include some 71 major newspapers throughout the United States, this series represents important publicity for the toy industry, Mr. Lunenfeld states.

The articles this year, which will appear on five consecutive days during December, include the following titles: "Dolls Can Do Anything You Can Do—Better," "Housekeeping Toys," "Young Scientists," "Games for Young and Old," and "Young America On Wheels."

EASY WAY TO HIKE

HUETTNER OF SELCHOW & RIGHTER HONORED; 25 YEARS WITH FIRM

A testimonial luncheon was tendered by the board of directors of Selchow & Righter Company on Saturday, October 30, to Frederick A. Huettner, vice-president in charge of production, in celebration of his 25th anniversary with this well-known firm. All present unanimously agreed that "Jimmy Shaw's" charming inn, located amid the rolling hills of Pound Ridge, N. Y., fully justified its selection as the scene for the luncheon.

At the conclusion of the appetizing repast, Miss H. T. Righter, president of the company, in her usual and charming manner, expressed on behalf of the officers and directors, the firm's sincere appreciation of Mr. Huettner's devotion to his duties as well as its gratitude for his many contributions to improved manufacturing methods at the Selchow & Righter plant during the past quarter century. Special mention was made of his efficient handling of the unprecedented demand for Scrabble, a demand which is still unabated.

Miss Righter then presented him with a beautiful Tiffany wristwatch bearing the inscription: "To Frederick A. Huettner from Selchow & Righter Co. 1929-1954." Following Miss Righter's warmly applauded presentation, all of Mr. Huettner's business associates in turn paid him tribute for his excellent work over the years.

Frederick A. Huettner

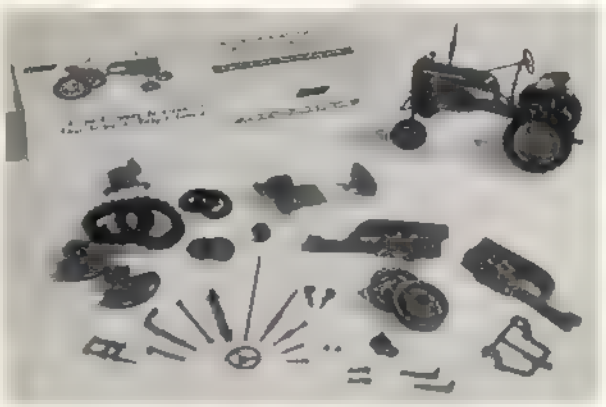
Mr. Huettner, obviously moved by the many tributes, responded in his usual modest manner by expressing his heartfelt thanks and deep appreciation for the kindnesses shown him, and added the hope that the next quarter century of the Selchow & Righter Company would prove to be as happy for all present as had the last.

It is interesting to note that Mr. Huettner joined the Selchow & Righter Company 25 years ago as a cost clerk. Soon thereafter, his aptitude for the game manufacturing business was recognized by the top management, and over the years a series of promotions followed that finally resulted in his winning a reputation as an outstanding production manager.

Present at the luncheon were Mrs. Frederick A. Huettner, Miss Harriet T. Righter, pres., S & R, Mr. and Mrs. L. K. Anderson, Miss Jessie A. Righter, Mr. and Mrs. Irving A. Wills, Paul H. Selchow, C. Ellsworth Tobias, Miss Marion E. Stringer and R. A. Jackman.

Authentic Scale-Model Tractor New in Saunders-Swadar Line



A put-together and take-apart farm tractor kit, which can be assembled without glue or cement, is the newest addition to the popular hobby craft line manufactured by Saunders-Swadar, Aurora, Ill. Consisting of 30 colorful red plastic parts, the interesting feature of this new tractor is that once assembled it can be taken apart and put together again with the process being repeated at the model builder's will.

In designing the tractor, identified in the line as TK-150, there has been incorporated in the item the principle which has resulted in enthusiastic reception for Saunders-Swadar kits; and that is that it is "fun to make and fun to play with." All kits are designed to provide not only time-consuming interest in the building, but have actual play value when completed.

Made to retail for around $1, the kit is packed in a colorful illustrated box from which the lid removes to reveal the contents. Each set comes with an illustrated, simply worded direction sheet, the tractor when assembled is ⅛ actual size, or 5½" high, 6½" long and 3" wide.

Saunders-Swadar are also making available in connection with their farm tractor, assembled models mounted on easels for display purposes.

Leo White, president, Knickerbocker Plastic, chats with Jack Webb.

Charles Resnick, secretary-treasurer of Carnell, and Dragnet's Mr. Webb.

"Dragnet," Prize TV and Radio Property, Licenses Carnell, Knickerbocker Plastic

SHERRY TV, INC., 9370 Santa Monica Boulevard, Beverly Hills, California, owners of "Dragnet," one of the nation's top-rated television and radio programs, have entered into licensing arrangements with Carnell Manufacturing Company, Inc., and Knickerbocker Plastic Company, Inc., for the exclusive manufacture and marketing by these firms of certain items to be produced under the "Dragnet" label.

A spokesman for Sherry TV, Inc., stated that the contracts entered into with Knickerbocker and Carnell gave to these firms the exclusive right to the use of the "Dragnet" name, as well as exclusive rights to the use of other important names associated with the program, such as Jack Webb, Sergeant Joe Friday and "Badge 714," in conjunction with the products to be manufactured by them, as a further means of product promotion and identification.

OUT OF 100 APPLICANTS . . .

The selection of Carnell to manufacture "Dragnet" gun and holster sets and Knickerbocker to manufacture "Dragnet" plastic and metal water and cap guns as well as cork and dart target sets, followed almost a solid year of market research and study, together with the consideration of the more than 100 major toy companies that applied for the "Dragnet" license.

"Our concern as to the selection of the right licensees was made even more important because of the immense prestige and character of the program," the Sherry TV, Inc., announcement said. "This program is tops on the air waves and with its triple impact of radio, network television and syndicated television programs it is seen and heard by one of the largest audiences of any program in the United States."

The announcement added that "Dragnet" plays to a weekly audience of over 45 million people on its primary national network. An audience of over 55 million sees "Dragnet" on local TV each week where it is presented as "Badge 714." The latter and "Dragnet" are in a total of over 200 different, major television markets.

It was also pointed out that "Dragnet," as a motion picture, had become one of the smash hits of the current movie season and will be one of the all-time box office greats.

OBLIGATION TO FANS

That announcement went on to say that 'a program of the size and importance of 'Dragnet' is not only a property of immense financial importance, but it entails, as well, an obligation not to misuse the public trust that has been given us. These factors made it imperative that we scan applicants from every standpoint before a decision could be made.

"Negotiations are under way for licensing of games, toys, and a limited number of other items. From time to time, Sherry TV, Inc., will announce its new licensees. It is our intention not to water or dilute our licenses by attaching the "Dragnet" name to more than a handful of different items.'

Leo White, president of Knickerbocker Plastics, stated that his company would market plastic and metal cap guns and water pistols modeled after the gun carried by Jack Webb, as well as cork and dart target games, all to retail at less than $1.98. He added that their gun was fashioned so that it would be almost identical in appearance with the Smith & Wesson pistol customarily carried by police officers. Among its many features will be a device that causes the gun barrel to smoke after firing and a cartridge clip that can be inserted into the gun.

Stanley Breslow, president of Carnell, explained that his firm is planning to market a police gun and holster set that would be a facsimile of the gun and holster worn by Jack Webb and already known to millions of children throughout the country.

"We intend to produce a full line of gun and holster sets in this series," Mr. Breslow stated. "They will retail within a price range that begins at $1.98 and goes to $5."

A surprise addition to the Carnell line will be a series of complete police sets, containing handcuffs, police whistles, a night stick and badge, in addition to a gun and holster. These sets will be priced to sell at retail from $3 to $6.

Knickerbocker and Carnell plan to introduce their "Dragnet" lines in time for the Toy Fair in March, 1955. Both firms are planning to support the products with large advertising schedules, a broad program of publicity and promotion, and through the medium of direct tie-ins with the program itself.

FULL BACKING PROMISED

The Sherry announcement concluded by stating, "Sherry TV, Inc., intends to back Knickerbocker and Carnell, and such others as it may license from time to time, in every possible way. We intend to throw the full weight and prestige of 'Dragnet' behind the selling efforts of our licensees. Furthermore, we will do everything in our power, as owners of the 'Dragnet' name, to protect our licensees against spurious or unfair competition, and Sherry will take whatever action it deems warranted against any manufacturer, now or in the future, who seeks to capitalize on the importance of 'Dragnet' without proper authorization."

Retailers and jobbers will soon receive a letter from the "Dragnet" management advising them of Sherry's exclusive authorization and warning against unauthorized substitutes.

TOP OF THE LIST

The popularity of the American-made bike as a Christmas present for boys and girls has had confirmation for years. A check of any of the "Letters to Santa Claus" columns in the newspapers will show that a "new bicycle" dominates the list of requests. The Bicycle Institute of America, trade association of the industry, reveals in a special survey of bike dealers that over 40 per cent of the many bicycles given as gifts throughout the year are given at Christmas time.

news of the PACIFIC COAST

By MARTHA FULLER

ALBERT ELLIS, founder of the jobbing firm of Ellis-Klatscher Co., Los Angeles, died on July 25. He leaves a wife, Rose; his son, Stanley A. Ellis, vice-president; and a sister.

D. H. Abrahams, 364 N. Martel, Los Angeles, returned to the West Coast early in August from a trip through the East. While there, he was appointed California representative for Glenmore Doll Co., and for the S & P Doll Co., both of New York City. He has been on the West Coast since 1935, during which time he has been selling in another field. He is interested in securing other lines in the toy and novelty field.

Specialty Mfg. Co., Inc., formerly located in Hollywood, has moved into San Fernando valley territory, and is located at 11331 Penrose St., Sun Valley, Calif. M. J. Hilton, owner of the company, has been in the toy wholesaling business since during the war, and this move to much larger quarters was made necessary by the growth of the company.

Jordan-Marsh Co. is the new San Diego, Calif., Allied store on the West Coast. It is a 3-story building located at 6th and C streets. The Christmas toy department will be handled by Robert Stokes, housewares buyer, who was formerly with Laubach's in Easton, Pa., and is known to many in the toy trade.

Another new store going in for Allied this year, is the new Bon Marche at Eugene, Oregon. It is planned that the buyers in the Portland Bon Marche will buy for the Eugene store also.

Lionel's western organization

Vic Goldberg, of De Luxe Game Corp., Kingston, Pa., was visiting on the West Coast in July, and spent some time in Los Angeles and San Francisco with Leo Scherrer, the firm's western representative.

Mr. Scherrer, manufacturer's agent, who makes his headquarters in Seattle, was recently appointed representative in the 11 western states for the phonograph line of The Wal-Feld Co. of New York.

John A. Drageset, for over 45 years a business man of Pasadena, Calif., passed away at his home the middle of July. He had been owner of John's Bicycle and Wheel Goods Shop, and was very highly regarded by all who knew him. His sons, Arthur, Norman and Iver, were associated with him from the time they were youngsters, and this fine cooperative family was seen at all bicycling events. The business has been carried on by the family since Mr. Drageset retired a couple of years ago.

Mommie and Dollie FASHION PROMOTION

CALIFORNIA DOLL CORPORATION announces a new "mommie and dollie fashion promotion," featuring Sandy Squaw, the pig-tailed walking doll in the new squaw dress. Keynote of the promotion, originated by Leonard Silverman, new president of the corporation, is the slogan, "Every little girl is a Living Doll."

According to Silverman, "In Sandy Squaw, we have a beautiful doll with fashion-appeal, timeliness and sensational tie-in offer. Every customer who buys Sandy at $10.98 receives a coupon in the box, on which to indicate the child's dress size and return to the manufacturer. California Doll at no extra cost to the purchaser, sends a squaw dress styled exactly like the doll's outfit, as a gift to the doll's new 'mommie.'

"In addition to being up-to-the-minute in apparel news, Sandy offers the excitement and glamour of 'something new from California'," Silverman states. Genuine crinkled squaw cloth, in fashion-right hot orange, is gathered into the saucy skirt, trimmed in bright white rickrack, and the same fabric in new Indian turquoise is the material for the one-button blouse with its perky collar and puffed sleeves.

Sandy is 19 inches tall, turns her head from side to side as she walks, has a lustrous saran wig, and carries a card of doll curlers for her washable hair.

Store banners printed in the appealing hot orange and Indian turquoise combination, picturing a six-year-old "mommie and dollie" dressed alike, are available free from California Doll Corporation, 3916 South Broadway, Los Angeles 36, California.

Hamilton-Monroe Offering New Toy Wagon, Tiny-Tote

Offered for spring and summer sale are two new eye-catching numbers in the line of the Hamilton-Monroe Manufacturing Company, 2214 Commonwealth Avenue, North Chicago, Ill. Both are illustrated here.

The first is the #480 Red Flyer Toy Wagon, a ruggedly built toy wagon brilliantly colored in red and silver. It's a sturdy, easy-to-steer companion for youngsters with a penchant for rough riding and heavy-hauling operations. And, adds the manufacturer, the #480's tough, baked finish and one piece (no seams, joints or welds) all-steel bed are guarantees the wagon will stand up under the overloads and twistings so routine in a child's play.

The bed of the Red Flyer is 19" long, 8¼" wide and 5" high; panel beading reinforces the bottom. Channels in the front and rear and the steering yoke are all stamped of heavy gauge steel and are aluminum colored. Wheels are all metal and measure 3½", while the axle, a curved steel tube, has a "D" grip.

Packing is 12 wagons, K. D., per shipping carton, with easy-to-follow instructions enclosed. Weight: 34 pounds.

Second of the two new Hamilton-Monroe numbers is the #530 Tiny-Tote, a scaled-down version of the garden cart children see their parents using. Finished in contrasting green body and red wheels and handles, the Tiny Tote is 8¼" high excluding the handle, 9½" wide, and 12¾" across the opening at the top.

Built entirely of metal, the Tiny-Tote is described as a safe, good-looking cart that will readily withstand the knocks and bangs given it during energetic play. Useful inside the home, or outdoors for carting 'sticks 'n' stones," leaves, and so forth, the Tiny Tote has rounded corners on top (wire-bound for strength) to guard against scratches.

Six carts are packed to a corrugated carton; weight of same is 18 pounds.

Both the Red Flyer and the Tiny-Tote may be seen in the New York showrooms of Max E. Brafman at 200 Fifth Avenue and in the Chicago showrooms of Henry H. Ellis, Inc., in the Merchandise Mart.

HEAVY NATIONAL AD CAMPAIGN BEHIND UNEEDA'S BABY-TRIX

A full-scale national advertising campaign has been launched by Uneeda Doll Company, Inc., 425 Broome Street, New York City, to introduce Baby Trix, called 'the only doll of its kind in the world.'

Baby Trix is being promoted as the 'Life-Action doll that moves exactly like an honest-to-goodness infant — without winding." The doll earns the "Life-Action" title by virtue of her unusual flexibility of movement; this new-style play companion wiggles her arms, legs, and head at only the touch of a hand. In addition, she moves her limbs when she is being rocked to and fro, or when she is held in a number of positions in which babies are customarily held by grown-ups.

The "Life-Action" doll was introduced to the trade via a cocktail party held in New York's Hotel McAlpin. The public will read about her in such national magazines as Life, Good Housekeeping, Parents', and Look. In addition, Uneeda reports the doll has met with such enthusiasm at the retail level that many stores are running large space ads of their own.

COLORFUL CLOTHES PEGS FROM PEG-PAL CREATIONS

Peg-Pal Creations, 2326 S. Michigan Avenue, Chicago 16, has introduced a set of 13" Animal Hardboard cut-outs for use as children's clothes pegs. Known as Peg-Pals, they are sold complete with screws, hooks, spacers and colorful knobs for installation anywhere on the wall or closet in a jiffy. Finished in long-lasting scratch-resistant lacquer, the Peg-Pals retail at $1 apiece and come in the forms of "Paddy Pig," "Peppy the Pup," or "Freddy Teddybear." They are packaged in reusable, individual polyethylene bags.

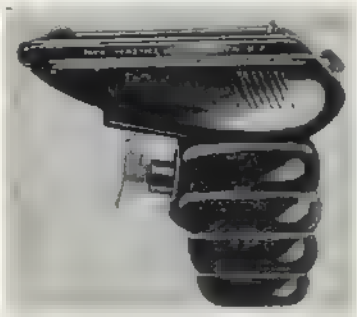
The manufacturer states that these Peg Pals, in their attractive three-tone color combinations and colored protected wooden peg hooks, actually add to the decoration of a room. And with Peg-Pals on the wall, the company adds, children take a hearty willing attitude toward keeping a room tidy, even to the extent of making a game out of hanging up items like apparel, dolls' clothes, towels, dresses or other playthings.

FUTURISTIC MIDGET WATER GUN LEADS LINE AT PARK PLASTICS

A highlight item in Park Plastics' water gun line for '54 has been and is the midget water gun shown here. Minutely and carefully designed, the gun is 2⅞" long by 2¾" deep and is called the Wee-Gee (Midget) Water Gun.

Jet black in color, the pump-action Wee-



Gee is futuristically designed—to appeal to space-minded youngsters—and embodies the mechanical details for which Park Plastics is well-known.

The gun is easily cleaned, has a removable brass nozzle and is guaranteed leakproof. It will shoot a stream of water 30 feet and has a capacity of approximately 100 shots.

NEW WOODEN CONSTRUCTION SET FROM INDUSTRIAL TRENDS, INC.

"Space Builder," a new, scientifically-engineered wooden construction set, has just been announced by Industrial Trends Inc., 331 W. Washington Boulevard, Chicago 6. It retails for $3.95.

Designed to furnish fun and excitement for boys and girls in all age brackets "Space Builder" consists of 138 pieces comprising the following: 24 1¼" cubes; 54 dowels, 18" in length x ¾" in diameter; 30 dowels, 8" in length x ⅜" in diameter; 24 dowels, 1" in length x ⅜" in diameter; package of rubber bands; an easy-to-follow illustrated instruction booklet. The dowels are made of tough, hard maple in natural finish; the cubes of selected soft maple in brilliant non-toxic colors.

Special attention has been called to the clever hole-arrangement of the cubes and the ingenious slot in the ends of each dowel which provide a simple but effective means for locking. These holes are on the cube edges, centered, 12 in all, permitting multi-dimensional design possibilities.

In use, a child effortlessly inserts a dowel into any hole. Because of the slot at the dowel end, a spring action is set up, thereby holding the dowel in place. However, a slight pull will release it. Other dowels are then inserted and other cubes attached thus creating immediately an intriguing design to delight the youngster from the very start.

This stimulates the urge to build, the desire to create different designs; i.e., interesting geometrical designs, scientifically correct, may be built, adding educational advantages no other construction set can offer.

Howdy Doody's Peanut Gallery Fans Don Masquerade Suits

Chief Thunderbud, Bison Bill and the Indian Papoose, stars of the Howdy Doody Show, are shown posing with the Howdy Doody masquerade costumes worn by every member of the show's Peanut Gallery. The costumes, exact replicas of those worn by Howdy himself, Clarabell the Clown and the Princess, were given to each child in the Peanut Gallery as a special Hallowe'en promotion.

Since the children were being seen on television coast to coast on 90 NBC-TV stations, the masks that usually accompany these $2.98 retailers were not worn. According to Harry Panzer, president of Bland Charnas Company, Inc., in Stamford, Conn., manufacturer of the Howdy Doody masquerade costumes, "There is no doubt that the showing of the costumes on the Howdy Doody TV Show helped a great deal in stirring up increased buying interest."

"Easy-to-Assemble" Rigid Pool in Chandlers' Line for 1955

"No nuts, screws, bolts, or even clamps" is the way in which Chandler Plastics, 40 Bleecker Street, New York City, is dramatizing the trouble-free assembly of their new 1955 rigid-frame pool.

According to a statement released by the company, it's only a matter of minutes for a youngster, parent, or even one of the grandparents, to set the pool up or take it down.

Designed by Chandler after two years of strenuous testing, the new pool is also said to have numerous other "plus" features. For one, the pool is made of rugged heavy canvas coated with vinyl—and there are no bottom seams, the company emphasizes. Capacity is a full 12" of water.

Greater pool strength is also reported by virtue of the Chandler model's double-support legs. Construction is such that all parts interlock in a simple manner, the four metal safety corner seats snapping into place. It is also stressed that the pool has directed drainage via a coupling drain which facilitates watering of the lawn or gardens.

Coo-Coo the Clown, a self-supported metal shower attachment, and an aluminum slide are available for use with the pool.

Chandler reports that advance acceptance on the pool has been excellent and that buyers have expressed extreme satisfaction with the selling power inherent in the "easy-to-assemble" feature.

New Licensing, Promotion Program by Terrytoons, Inc.

Paul Terry, surrounded by some Mighty Mouse fans.

A new franchising promotion for the familiar Terrytoons movie, TV and comic strip characters has been announced by Paul Terry, president of Terrytoons, Inc. The Terrytoons organization now offers exclusive merchandise licenses in a number of previously unopened toy fields.

Manufacturers securing the new licenses will receive the advantage of a strong program of retail support. Terrytoons characters are seen daily by motion picture audiences (adult and children), on network TV programs, in newspaper syndicated comic strips, children's books, comic books, and heard on phonograph records.

Adding promotion fuel to the fire will be the annual Macy's Thanksgiving Day Parade, where the giant Mighty Mouse Balloon will again dominate this year's line of march for the fourth consecutive season—both on Broadway and on NBC-TV coast-to-coast.

"People raise their eyebrows when we say our characters enjoy over 200,000,000 consumer impressions a week," says Paul Terry, "but that's what it adds up to. The latest audience rating indicates that over 12,500,000 kids are now watching Mighty Mouse on our weekly Barker Bill TV cartoon show—sponsored by General Mills over 79 CBS video stations.

"Over 170,000,000 adults and children every week are reading the Barker Bill syndicated comic strip in the daily and Sunday editions of 75 newspapers across the United States. Add to them the 20,000,000 or more folks each week who view Terrytoon cartoon films in their local movie theatres, the 3,000,000 boys and girls who buy Terrytoons Comic Books each month, and the children who buy Terrytoons story books and listen to Terrytoons phonograph records."

"All that adds up to millions of dollars in unique promotional benefits for a licensee—by any man's arithmetic."

Terrytoons has offered a limited number of licenses to toy manufacturers since 1951. Now franchises are being offered on all characters to the entire market. Mr. Terry lists several reasons for this new move.

"For one thing," says the veteran cartoonist, "we know the public is ready. But there's more here than just profits for licensees. Ever since 1915, when I put together one of the first animated cartoons, I've been involved in making children happier in a busy, dizzy world.

"Since all our Terrytoon characters—Mighty Mouse, Heckle and Jeckle, Barker Bill, Dinky and the rest—have become such real friends to millions of kids, they have received a terrific reception when they've been associated with toys and games. Like our characters, wholesome and happy toys for kids play an indispensable part in American life. Today, more and more youngsters are even choosing their own toys, thanks to modern, up-to-date self-service merchandising."

The franchising of Terrytoon characters is being conducted by Bill Weiss at Terrytoons, Inc., 38 Centre Street, New Rochelle, N. Y. Inquiries are invited. Current licensees include: Bar Zim Toy Mfg. Company, Bayshore Industries, Bland Charnas Company, Arthur Brown & Bros., Dexter Mfg. Company, Ed-U-Cards, Inc., E. E. Fairchild Corporation, Grosset & Dunlap, Samuel Lowe Company, St. John Publishing Company, Bernard Scherel Spec-Toy-Culars, Inc., and others.

LAND OF THE MIGHTY

Mixed-Up Forest

AN appealing mixture of fantasy, humor, and imagination characterizes the newest hit children's television show over the ABC network, "The Adventures of Blinkey," seen 15 minutes a week around the country.

This fresh approach to children's programming features a new twist on an old idea: the central character, "Blinkey," starts out the show as a living boy (the only "live" character on the show) and winds up as a puppet after he is transported through space into the "land of the Mighty Mixed-Up Forest."

"Blinkey" appeals to youngsters in the audience as the prototype of the average kid, and the children can easily project themselves into the role as he encounters fantastic adventures in the enchanted forest.

"Blinkey," an Engaging Puppet

Headed by "Blinkey" himself, who is an engaging puppet with tousled blond hair, a snub nose, a disarming grin and big round eyes, the cast of puppet characters includes "Bookworm," a pedantic and learned professor who operates a magic "Book-O-Mat," which produces books of all kinds; "Gargoyle," assistant to the "What Not Tree" and superintendent of the "Mighty Mixed-Up Forest," and the "What Not Tree," which is the symbol of democratic authority in this magic land; "Foggy the Bullfrog," and the nemesis of these characters, "Harpy the Witch."

The show has a "Wizard of Oz" type of atmosphere and story, with the live "Blinkey" transported from the world of reality into the realm of fantasy and in the process, changing into a puppet. Once there, his adventures concern the efforts of the inhabitants of the "Mighty Mixed-Up Forest" to suppress "Harpy the Witch" and her plots to rule the land.

Much interest has already been engendered in merchandising this popular show, and in answer to the many inquiries about licensing some of the characters for toy items, Blinkey Enterprises has said that it will be happy to cooperate with manufacturers in every way. The firm has worked out a dynamic merchandising program and offers its aid in designing and marketing the items.

Reason for Success

One of the reasons for "Blinkey's" great success is the original creator and writer of the show, Dr. Lucille Emerick, youthful author, educator, lecturer, and child pyschologist, who not only has a fertile imagination and the sure knowledge of what appeals to children, but who maintains close contact with child welfare and the problems that constantly confront the parents of today. Dr. Emerick stresses the "back to normal" approach to the modern child in her popular lectures to Parent-Teacher Associations, civic and church groups, and in her writings. She holds a bachelor of music, bachelor of science, master of arts and doctor's degrees, and is also a former professor at Guilford College, North Carolina. While there, Dr. Emerick supplemented her campus activities by supervising education on the elementary and high school levels in Guilford county schools and conducted seminars for teachers in remedial procedures.

The show is directed by Murray King.

New, Easily-Assembled Auto Kit

The most talked about auto in the nation is being introduced in model form by Ace Products Co., Pasadena, Calif., veteran producers of scale model autos in wood.

The Corvette will retail for $1.00. It is 7 inches long and 2½ inches wide, and comes complete with rubber tires. Headlights, radiator, front bumper and steering wheel are plastic. All necessary insignia are included in decal form.

The Chevrolet Corvette is the most easily assembled kit yet made by Ace, according to company president Gordon A. Babb.

"All the difficult work is done for the modeler—in plastic," Babb explained. "However, we retained enough work with balsa to assure the builder of a feeling of real accomplishment."

Publicity Promises Sales

Ace expects this new plastic, European-type sports car to result in large sales in model form. While Chevrolet is making only a thousand of the cars a month, Ace will make them by the thousands each week—to meet anticipated consumer demands.

Wholesalers already have placed advance orders.

"We feel that the publicity surrounding the auto makes its sales potential tremendous in models," Ace said. "The eyes of the nation will be on the Corvette—which is clearly the car of the future. The autos are cheaper to make than steel cars, are more adaptable to design changes, and are easier to mold."

While the prototype is now produced only in white, model builders may anticipate future colors and paint their balsa miniatures accordingly.

Toy Guidance Names Expanded Educational Panel

SIX nationally prominent educators, representing each major section of the country, have been appointed by Melvin Freud, president of Toy Guidance Council, to serve as educational consultants to the Council's new program for 1954.

The panel of educators met in New York on March 3 to examine toys selected by the wholesale, retail and consumer committee. According to Mr. Freud, the panel of educators was particularly concerned with the safety, durability and play purposes of each toy. "Their recommendations are accepted unconditionally," said Mr. Freud.

During the year, the educators will be available for research work on toys, guest appearances on television and radio programs, and lectures before PTA's, women's clubs and other parent groups.

Emma Dickson Sheehy Chairman

The educators will be under the chairmanship of Professor Emma Dickson Sheehy, associate professor of childhood education, Teachers College, Columbia University. Mrs. Sheehy is one of the most famous child guidance specialists in the country. She recently starred in her own children's television show, which originated in Chicago during the latter part of 1953. She is the author of several books on child play activities, a monthly columnist for Parent's Magazine, and has been educational consultant to Toy Guidance Council since 1946.

Serving her second year on the panel is Dr. Mary Moffitt, assistant professor of education, Queens College, Flushing, N. Y. Dr. Moffitt, a specialist in nursery school education, is a favorite guest for top TV shows. She recently appeared on the Dave Garroway show over NBC-TV, acted as moderator on one of the New York City Department of Education's "On The Carousel" programs over CBS-TV and appeared with Herb Sheldon on NBC-TV.

Knows Play Equipment

Dr. Philip Lewis, chairman of the department of education for Chicago Teachers' College, has also had considerable experience with children's play equipment. For two years, over a major Chicago television station, he conducted his own hobby show. In addition, he is TV editor for the Educational Screen Magazine, periodicals editor for Chicago Schools Journal, and frequent contributor to such specialized magazines as Radio-TV Journal, Phi Delta Kappa and Advertising Age.

Other members of the Toy Guidance Council educational panel include Dr. Doris Gregory, co-director of the child development center, Long Beach Public Schools, Long Beach, California; Dwight Teel, coordinator of elementary education, Corpus Christi Public Schools, Corpus, Christi, Texas; and Alma Williams, associate professor in the school of education, University of Miami, Coral Gables, Florida.

Arranbee Dolls to Unveil 3 New Numbers at Toy Fair

Three new promotional numbers will be introduced by Arranbee Doll Company, Inc., at the Toy Fair, it was announced recently by Mike Emerson, vice president of the company, at its showroom, Room 1451, 200 Fifth Avenue, New York 10.

Although the "hottest" of these new promotional numbers will be under wraps until the Fair, Mike Emerson revealed that Arranbee's top seller last year, "Little Angel," all-plastic toddler, a sellout promotional number coast to coast, now has new clothes featuring new fashions, styles, and color combinations.

Working with leading progressive educators, teachers, nurseries, and mothers, Arranbee Doll Company, Inc., has evolved a new doll designed to become an important educational tool. Although Mr. Emerson would say nothing more about this doll at this time, it is said to represent an entirely new conception of the doll's place in education. Certainly, this new doll development will be of prime interest to doll buyers.

The third and most important promotional number to be introduced by Arranbee at the Toy Fair, is literally "top secret." Mike Emerson gave no inkling except to assure that in his company's 35 years in the doll business, such major doll innovations have been few and far between.

A visit to the Arranbee showroom, Room 1451, 200 Fifth Avenue, should be an advantage to buyers visiting the Toy Fair.

Foam Rubber Bend-Me-Toys Include Disney Characters

Competitiveness, variety, new products and packaging are announced as the keynotes of the 1954 line of Bayshore Industries, Inc., Elkton, Md. Most conspicuous of the many items displayed in Bayshore's showroom (Parlor G of the New Yorker) at the coming Toy Fair will be a new selection of rubber mask characters painted in a wide range of color combinations. To complement this line, Bayshore will introduce an appealing new series of gauze masks.

Walt Disney will be amusingly represented by Bayshore's foam rubber Bend-Me-Toys of Pluto, Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck (see cut). In this connection Parlor G visitors will be invited to enter the lucky number drawing, sponsored by Walt Disney Character Merchandise, for an RCA Victor color television set.

For outdoor play, Bayshore will show its full line of 29c, 59c and 98c rubber beach balls as well as its lightweight latex swim fins retailing at $1.59.

APRIL, 1954, ANNOUNCED AS NAT'L HOBBY MONTH

The 19th Annual celebration of National Hobby Month will again be sponsored in April, 1954, by The Hobby Guild of America, 550 Fifth Avenue, New York City

The four weekly observances will be National Arts and Crafts Week, April 1-7; National Model Building Week, April 8-15; National Gardening Week, April 16-23; and National Photography Week, April 24-30.

Keynoting the active development of the "Do It Yourself" trend that is sweeping the country, the slogan for the over-all promotion of National Hobby Month will be "Have Fun With a Do It Yourself Hobby."

Each weekly observance will also campaign for more hobby interest and more devotees with separate slogans as follows: National Arts and Crafts Week, "Do It Yourself.—With a Handy Craft." National Model Building Week: "For a Model Hobby—Build a Model." National Gardening Week, "Plant a Hobby—Watch It Grow." National Photography Week "Focus Your Fun on Photography."

Because of the demand from the model building and photography industries, The National Hobby Month Committee has prevailed upon The Hobby Guild to set aside the second and fourth weeks of April especially for these hobbies.

In coordinating the interest of hobbyists, hobby merchandise dealers and manufacturers, The Guild is endeavoring to increase hobby activity and hobby business generally. It is felt that greater constructive leisure time activity will tend to combat crime and juvenile delinquency.

Magazines in the field of arts and crafts, photography, gardening and model building are planning special features during the celebration. Retail hobby outlets, department stores, libraries, schools and hobby clubs throughout the nation will participate with organized hobby exhibits, store displays and hobby contests.

National Hobby Month will feature the announcement of new members of The Hobby Hall of Fame, The Guild's highest annual award.

Among those already elected to this honor is President Dwight D. Eisenhower for his hobbies of oil painting, golf and fishing.

Cooper's Walt Disney Costume Line Enlarged

Shown here in a section of the remodeled Drelich showroom are Sam Drelich, Herbert H. Drelich, Ben Cooper and Nat Cooper.

The new 1954 Walt Disney costume line will be presented this year in the new enlarged and redecorated showrooms (see above) of Sam & Herbert Drelich, Room 323, 200 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

It is announced, too, that this Walt Disney line of Halloween Costumes manufactured by Ben Cooper Inc., 18 West 20 Street, New York City, has been enlarged and improved.

The lovable Walt Disney characters will lead the parade of novel and traditional Halloween costumes. Pinocchio, Dumbo, Bambi and Dopey will be added to the line of Walt Disney characters that already include Mickey, Donald, Peter Pan and Tinker Bell.

From the Fairy Princess to the 3-D Monster, the entire line has been redesigned in gleaming rayon and other fabrics. Some of the characters have been given "Voices," specifically, Mickey Mouse, Minnie Mouse and Donald Duck. Others are decorated with Jingle Bells. Many have third-dimensional effects.

New characters such as "Spider Man," "Napoleon," "Jet Man" and the "Space Man" join the traditional Black Cat, Devil and Witch to make the Ben Cooper Spotlite 1954 presentation a new concept in Halloween costumes.

Jack Shapiro and Maury Axelrod from the firm's Chicago office, and Harley Cook, west coast representative, will join Sam and Herbert Drelich to greet their many friends at the Toy Fair.

The complete Ben Cooper Spotlite Costume line will be on display in Room 441-443, Hotel McAlpin, during the Toy Fair, as well as in the 5th Avenue Building.

Baby Barry Appointment

Ted Field, president of Baby Barry Toy Company and B. & B. Toy Company, manufacturers of popular-priced Promotional and Carnival Dolls and Stuffed Animals, recently announced that Edward Vogt has become affiliated with their organization as midwestern sales representative for 1954.

Mr. Vogt, or "Eddie," as he is familiarly known throughout the toy trade, was recently connected with the Imperial Crown Toy Corporation and previous to that had spent 17 years with the old American Flyer Mfg. Company of Chicago.

Both the Baby Barry Toy Company and B. & B. Toy Company are located at 38 W. 21st St., New York City, and will show their lines during the Toy Fair in Room 1169, Hotel McAlpin. Eddie and his new associates will be on hand to greet Toy Fair visitors, and Eddie is looking forward to welcoming his old friends at that time. Following the Toy Fair, Eddie will take to the road to show the lines in all the principal cities of the middle west.

Dynamic Merchandising Program for "Blinkey" Television Show

Described as one of the most engaging children's TV shows to come along in some time, "The Adventures of Blinkey" is the story of a little boy who can turn himself into a puppet for adventures in the "Mighty Mixed-Up Forest."

In answer to the many inquiries about licensing some of the characters for toy items, Ben Horowitz, executive manager of Blinkey Enterprises, 106 West End Avenue, New York City, has said they will be happy to cooperate with manufacturers in every way. The firm has worked out a dynamic merchandising program and offers its aid in designing and marketing items. The show has a "Wizard of Oz" atmosphere and script author, Dr. Lucille Emerick, has peopled her script with a host of imaginative characters including the What-Not Tree, the Gargoyle, Bull Frog Drummond, the Weaver and the traditional Witch, tagged Harpy. The last named sports a jet-propelled vacuum cleaner in place of a broom.

Produced by Murray King, of Blinkey Productions, Inc., the program is sponsored by the American Maize Products for Amazo Instant Dessert and can be viewed over WABC-TV coast to coast on Saturday mornings, 11:30 to 11:45 EST.

Dr. Emerick, well known novelist, educator, lecturer and child psychologist, has combined her warm understanding of children and the benefits of her broad education in scripting the show. As a teacher and educator, Dr. Emerick maintains a close contact with child welfare and the problems that constantly confront parents of today. As professor of Guilford College, North Carolina, Dr. Emerick supplemented her campus activities by supervising education on the elementary and high school levels in Guilford County public schools and conducted seminars for teachers in remedial procedures.

In her lectures to Parent Teachers Associations, civic and church groups, Dr. Emerick highlights the back-to-normal approach to the modern child.

MACON EXPECTS "GOOD '54" FOR THEIR JUVENILE ROCKERS

The Macon Mfg. Company, Thomasville, N. C., states they are entering their fourth year as manufacturers of juvenile upholstered rockers with optimistic expectations of exceeding their record production of 1953. Two years ago the firm located in a new plant, but the constantly increasing demand for their line necessitated another move to larger quarters and they have been forced to seek still greater production facilities. On June 1 they are planning to expand their operations in a new two-story building of 12,000 square feet of floor space which is now under construction.

Says Mr. Macon, "We feel that the principal reason for the continued growth of our line is the fact that we put into it the best possible workmanship and endeavor to keep our prices in line with the public demand for genuine values."

Sales on the Macon line are capably handled by Irwin A. Morganstern of the Sheldon Company, Greensboro, N. C., who has long experience in the merchandising of juvenile rockers and other juvenile specialties. Mr. Morganstern will be on hand to greet his many friends during the Toy Fair in Room 902, Hotel McAlpin.

"Plastic Toys Can Be Heirlooms"

By
E. W. WARD
General Sales Manager, Celanese Corp. of America

A BROKEN, jagged-edged plastic toy poses problems for others beside its youthful owner –parents, manufacturers, toy buyers, retailers, as well as the plastics industry itself.

But an analogy might be drawn between those who are currently dissat isfied with some plastic toys and the man who burned down his entire fac tory because some of the shoes manufactured in it were not perfect! Undoubtedly some have been shortsighted in selecting the materials for toys and sometimes the design is to blame. As a result some plastic toys on the market today do not meet the hard test and wear at the hands of the soda set.

THE POSITIVE SIDE

But what about the thousands and thousands of good plastic toys which provide sales as well as satisfaction year in and year out? What about the Daisy play guns, the Toni Doll, the Saunders Hot Rod and Jaguar cars, the Plakie and Tinkie infants toys, the 3D color plaques to name a few which have and are providing millions of youngsters with countless hours of pleasure.

What about these and many other well designed, tough plastic toys which have met every test over a long period of time? Toys costing as little as 20c or as much as $20, des.gned well and of the right material can last Celanese Corporation of America which supplies the major portion of the acetate plastics used by the toy industry, reports that recently an ace tate toy bus arrived in New York having travelled more than a thousand miles in an open-end box. Not only did the bus run after this somewhat phenomenal journey but there was not a dent nor a scratch on it. It is doubtful that the most energetic youngster could match this kind of endurance test.

By providing good materials, by working with toy manufacturers, by developing special formulae for plastics to be used in toys, the American plastics industry has contributed far beyond its size to the growth of the toy industry during the past 12 years. The dollar sales volume of toys has increased more than 400 per cent since 1940, and in the past three years alone sales have gone from an estimated 350 million dollars to about 450 million dollars Manufacturers and sellers alike contend that plastics have played the major role in heralding this age of tough but attractive toys . . . of fast, low cost production . . . of colors and textures, shapes and sizes, never before known in toys. Plastic toys won't splinter, rust or dent—plastic toys require a minimum of painting.

Ideal's Toni Doll started a tradition "that will last." She s made of acetate

From the famed Kewpie doll of years gone by today's life-like Toni doll which will be an heirloom, is a long jump indeed. Ideal Toy Corporation, manufacturers of the Toni doll, did not use plastics until 1946, but now, only eight years later, plastics account for approximately half of Ideal's line. For 70 years the Daisy rifle has ranked with the best in toys and again this year Daisy chose acetate plastic because, according to their own statement, "nothing gives the toughness and long life of molded acetate."

TELLING THE STORY

Celanese is currently carrying this story to the trade in a series of advertisements entitled "Some plastics talk tough—Acetate is tough." Thus far the reaction to the series has been favorable. The answer to complaints about plastic toys seems to lie in a greater effort at mating the right plastic with the right design, with the choice based on a realistic appraisal of the end use of the toy. The toy and plastics industries together have chalked up such a record in the past decade that the next ten years should produce an even more mutually successful partnership to make better and more durable toys, in every price range, available for the "young ry.

Some say the ultimate consumer is the final judge For most commodities the retail buyer must assume the responsibility for both sides of the counter. They can displace Caveat Emptor. Toy buyers are trying

NEW "TERRY PLAYFOAM TOYS" INTRODUCED BY ALTA AT FAIR

The new Alta Products line of "Terry Playfoam Toys," to be introduced for the first time to the toy trade at the forthcoming toy show, already scored a tremendous success when previewed in the Alta showrooms, spokesmen for the firm assert.

At present the line consists of "Harvey the Rabbit," "Paddy the Panda," "Brunie the Bear," and "Playboy the Dog." All the toys are completely washable, filled with genuine rubber covered with superior quality terry cloth and have permo-set eyes. They are 10½" tall and priced to retail at $1.98.

Acceptance has reportedly been so gratifying that, already, additions to the line are being contemplated. Clowns, Santa Claus, and other toys of varying sizes are in the offing, to retail from $1 to $1.98.

Long recognized as a leading manufacturer of foam rubber pillows and slippers, Alta has increased its production facilities more than two-fold to handle the upsurge in orders on the "Playfoam" line.

Originally introduced to the notion departments last year, the toys registered exceptionally well with buyers, country wide, the company states. However, because of limited production Alta was hesitant about "invading" the toy field. In December, when a fire devastated their Pennsylvania plant, it was decided to rebuild with sufficient capacity to service the demands of the toy market. Thus a completely modern set-up was established and the toy line became an actuality.

Present plans call for increased aid to the retailers in the form of advertising mats, copy service, counter displays, and dealer aids.

Product Miniature Doubles Capacity

To provide additional assembly line and office space, the Product Miniature Company recently doubled the size of their Milwaukee, Wisconsin, plant.

The new facilities include a drafting room, office quarters, and an assembly line for the Tru-Miniature electric crawler tractor. This arrangement will take pressure off other assembly lines and make room for new products.

Nearly a dozen new items have been added to the 1954 line of mechanized Tru-Miniatures. Outstanding additions include the Trailways Thru-Liner Bus, Oscar Mayer Wienermobile and the yellow cab.

The new bus is a miniature copy of the latest idea in cross-country transportation —double-decking. It's 18 inches long and comes in four color finish: silver, red, cream and white. It is said to offer exceptional play value. The destination sign can be turned to 16 different cities; wheels are demountable and interchangeable; four pieces of miniature luggage and a spare wheel are in the luggage compartment. The bus has a high-impact plastic body with a Tak-a-part motor in the rear and a Spin-Torque motor to propel it. It has nine heavy-duty white wheels, chrome hub caps, and black vinyl tires; and the front wheels turn either left or right. The steel chassis is interlocking. The box can be used as a bus depot.

The wienermobile is a new idea in toys. It's a scale model of the famous Oscar Mayer car. It also is propelled by a Spin-Torque motor, and as it moves along "Oscar the Chef" moves up and down in the top of the wiener.

The yellow cab is a 1954 model Plymouth with a Spin Torque motor, yellow cab decals, a trunk billboard and a taxi sign on top. It has tinted windows, a steel chassis, black vinyl tires, a silver-lacquered grille, bumpers and lights. It is 1/25th scale of the real taxi.

The deluxe model No. 353 electric crawler tractor with transformer now includes two electric headlights, an 18-inch log chain, three logs, a new remote control panel, a wagon with rear hitch, a metal drawbar hitch and a bulldozer blade assembly that snaps on or off.

In addition, the remote-controlled electric crawler tractor is now offered with the control panel, but without a transformer for customers who wish to use the transformer they already have on hand as part of their electric train set-up.

This standard model No. 355, without transformer, has headlights, a log chain and logs, the new remote control panel, a metal drawbar hitch and snap-on bulldozer blade assembly.

In addition to their Farmall tractor kit, Product Miniature now offers both the Plymouth sedan and the suburban in unassembled kits. The car kits include all the parts necessary to assemble the complete item plus paints and brush.

Bill and Paul Ford, owners of the Product Miniature Company, point out that the Tru-Miniature lines for 1954 have been almost completely motorized for additional play value and increased sales appeal.

Sales manager Vern Hanson says he feels sure that realism plus down-on-the-floor toy action is the kind of wholesome, educational entertainment mothers want for their children and that all these new features will help make the Tru-Miniature line "more popular than ever."

Clarke's Toyland Growing

THE PICTURES on this page are of Clarke's Toyland, Waukesha, Wisconsin, a separate-premises operation of the Clarke Walgreen agency. Bill Skedda is buyer and merchandise manager for both and John G. Hasker, formerly with the People's Store in Roseland, Chicago, is assistant manager of Toyland.

Toys carried by Clarke's had, prior to three years ago, been restricted to a small corner in the drugstore. Mr. Skedda, convinced that trade would make the move profitable, then engineered the opening of an exclusive toy store, 30 by 60 feet.

In September of last year, according to Mr. Hasker, another expansion became necessary and Toyland was moved to its present quarters, which has 4,800 square feet of floor area. Confirming Mr. Skedda's and Mr. Hasker's faith in the business volume jumped, totaling for '53 over $85,000.

"We figure a great deal of our success," states Mr. Skedda, "was due to our layaway program begun 1st September 15th. By December 24th there were more than 800 layaways which were handled right in the store. In every case, within five minutes after the customer called for his layaway the transaction was completed.

"Our immediate market here is Waukesha itself, of course," continues Mr. Skedda, "a community of some 30,000—but the word's gotten around that our selection and service are first-rate and we find that we're drawing people from miles away in every direction, even Milwaukee."

LIGHT SIGNALS, NEW SHIFT FEATURE '54 KIDDIE DRIVETTE

The Kiddee Drivette, a new idea for child safety in cars is now available. In addition to the seat with a play steering wheel and standard shifting gear, the George C. Knight Company, 19720 W. 8 Mile Road, Detroit 35, Michigan, has added two exclusive, outstanding features this year. These are Directo Lite Signals and Kid-A-Matic Shift (Patent Pending).

The new Directo-Lite Signals operate exactly like turn signals in standard automobiles. If the lever is pushed up, a light flashes to the right; if the lever is pulled down, a light flashes to the left. Kid-A-Matic Shift, simulates shifting. The realistic gear shift lever moves indicator to N, D, L or R postitions.

Kiddee Drivette's outstanding features are its sturdy flat frame, strong safety belt, large wheel, beep-beep horn and sturdy metal seat. The whole unit folds back out of the way when not in use, is light in weight and easy to carry. The "Custom" model retails for $5.98, the price being slightly higher West of the Rockies and extreme South.

The Kiddee Drivette "DeLuxe" model, retailing for $4.98, is the same size as the "Custom" model and has the same advantages and safety features. However, in place of Kid-A-Matic Sneft, it features a conventional gear shift lever and does not have Directo-Lite Signals.

The Drivette, says the manufacturer, is especially designed for children, not babies It keeps them busy during the nursery stage of their growth and aids in child development, the company adds.

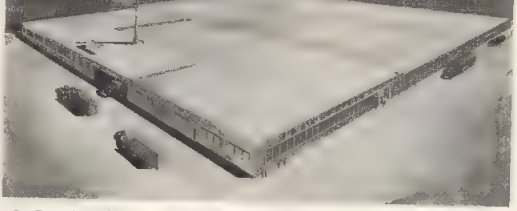
Added Manufacturing Facilities for Tootsietoys Available Soon



In December of last year, the Dowst Manufacturing Company, Chicago, broke ground for the construction of a new, thoroughly modern factory and warehouse. As depicted in the accompanying architect's sketch, the new Tootsietoys plant will be a spacious, one-story factory with 80,000 square feet of floor space and will embody all the latest advances in efficient mass production facilities.

The new structure is being built on a plot covering 175,000 square feet, adjacent to a railroad siding and located at 600 North Pulaski Road, Chicago. The building is expected to be ready for occupancy in the fall of 1954 and the greatly augmented manufacturing facilities afforded, in addition to the present Toosietoy plant, will enable Dowst to adequately take care of the constantly increasing demand for their popular and long-established line of die cast metal toys.

HOWDY DOODY:

Salesman on Strings

WHEN the Howdy Doody show was first presented to the kids in 1947, it came on the air with a comparative handful of viewers. Today it is rated one of leading daytime television shows with 15 million viewers each day. It is said to consistently top such weekly shows as Perry Como's and Dinah Shore's, and Arthur Godfrey's morning TV program.

The Kagran Corporation, which owns the Howdy Doody television package, has licensed some 70 current manufacturers producing items with a combined annual retail sales figure running into many millions of dollars.

Among the firms participating in the show's sponsorship are: Blue Bonnet Margarine, Royal Puddings and Desserts, Kellogg's Cereals, Colgate Toothpaste, Hostess Cupcakes, Wonder Bread, Luden's Candy and Coughdrops, Poll Parrot Shoes, Welch's Grape Juice –and the latest addition: Campbell Soups.

In many cases, the sponsor has signed an agreement with Kagran for the use of Howdy's name and face on the cover, on the boxtop, inside and outside the package, at point of sale, trade broadsides, etc. On this basis alone, the number of impressions made is truly staggering.

AMONG THE LICENSEES

Among the well-known firms in the toy industry who star Howdy Doody in their line are Ideal Toy Corporation, with Howdy Doody and Clarabell dolls, plastic sandforms, plastic paint and shovel set, beach balls, swim rings, wading pools and a peg bench set; Lido Toy Company with a toy TV set; Milton Bradley Company with crayon sets, paint sets, sewing kits, embroidery sets and boxed puzzles; Parker Brothers, with a bowling game, boxed jig saw puzzle and beanbag game; Peter Puppet Playthings with marionettes and hand puppets; Rushton Company, with stuffed plush dolls of the two cherished animals on the show, Zippy the Chimp and Windy the Dog; Shura Tone Corporation, with phonographs; Tigrett Enterprises with a Howdy Doody gravity toy; Bernhard-Ulmann with terry cloth towels, wash mittens and bibs.

Allan Stone, designer.

In addition, the Dell Publishing Company sells six million Howdy Doody comic books a year; RCA Victor has had Howdy records on the best-seller lists for years; Simon & Schuster's features Howdy in its Golden Books; and in an unprecedented departure Howdy Doody is now seen on film in theatres. The first film, a color cartoon produced by United Productions of America, has already been booked into the Paris Theatre in New York.

HARD-WORKING STONES

Allan Stone, Kagran Corporation's vice-president in charge of merchandising, has been given credit for a large measure for the tremendous success of Howdy in the toy field.

His brother, Martin Stone, worked out details for the initial show with Bob Smith. Martin today is president of the Kagran Corporation and his long experience in television has proved invaluable in advancing Kagran to its present position of leadership in the merchandising field.

Allan has designed most of the packages as well as the items themselves, toiling for many long hours with Kagran's own art department working on and redoing the items until they were satisfactory. In all cases, it is Allan Stone who approves final artwork for the hundreds of Howdy Doody products.

Before the Christmas season of 1953, Amsco purchased time on the Howdy Doody TV show and has asked, through its advertising agency, for an option for 13 weeks prior to Christmas 1954 for sponsorship again.

There are many ways the Kagran licensees have benefitted from their identification with Howdy Doody. Of foremost importance is that from time to time the products are plugged on the TV show itself, and thus are seen by the millions of kids and their parents across the country.

In addition, contests are introduced on a national and local level in which Howdy toys are used as prizes. Two examples are the following:

(1) A Blue Bonnet Margarine contest recently showed the Howdy Doody wrist watch, Acro-Doodle and crazy ball on 12 million Blue Bonnet boxes on the entry blanks, at the point of sale, in 25,000 food stores, as part of the TV commercial for six weeks, in 400-line newspaper ads and mentioned in hundreds of radio spots. The benefits reaped by the manufacturers involved are reported still being felt. (2) A TV Guide coloring contest showed photos of the Howdy Doody rocker, the Ideal Clarabell doll, Shura-Tone's Phonodoodle and Russell Mfg. Company's Howdy card game. Here again a great many inquiries were received asking where these could be purchased.

From time to time sponsors have asked for various toys as premiums and here also a handsome profit has resulted for all concerned.

Among the new items coming out this year are:

COMING UP

A new set of masks and costumes of Howdy Doody, Clarabell and the Princess made by Bland Charnas; new beanbag games by Parker Brothers; electric doodler by Harett-Gilmar; a new miniature card game by Russell Mfg. Company; a new numbered paint set by D & R Industries (Tom Donofrio, head of McKay-Davis Chemical Corporation and John Roosevelt, son of the late FDR their first venture into the toy field); a new crayon set by Milton Bradley; a new set of vinyl plastic squeeze toys distributed through Peter Puppet Playthings and made by Pixie Products; a suction cup, rattle toys and roly-poly toys by Stahlwood; a smaller version of the Clarabell and Howdy dolls and the plastic pail and shovel set by Ideal; and a large version of the doodle slate with more play value, individually boxed, by Stickless Corporation. These, with Tigrett's gravity toy and Rushton's plush dolls, comprise a major portion of the new items Kagran has licensed in the past few months.

In February, Howdy became the first television show to be televised in color for a full week. This was done because network executives are said to have felt that Howdy Doody lent itself naturally to the color medium.

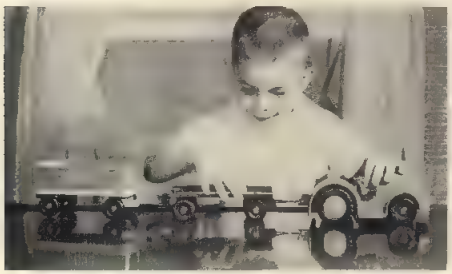
Howdy Doody is currently seen on 83 TV stations from coast to coast Monday through Friday on the NBC-TV network from 5:30 to 6:00. With new TV stations going up, more TV sets being bought, and color TV opening up a new wonderland for Doodyville dialers, the sales impact of this fabulous puppet in the toy industry is expected to be even greater than ever.

New Scale Model Toy

Hauling air freight and baggage around make-believe airports is the job of a new steel scale Model Toy made by Charles William Doepke Mfg. Co., Rossmoyne, Ohio.

The new three-unit toy is an accurate reproduction of a Clarktor CT-120 tractor made by Clark Equipment Company, Buchanan, Michigan. It consists of the tow tractor and two freight trailers with self-locking couplings.

Designed for youngsters in the two to ten-year age group, the new toy can be used as a pull toy by younger children, or as a companion to other Model Toys by older children.



The heavy duty red die cast tractor retains all the major features of the Clarktor in one-sixteenth scale. Fenders, seat, motor housing, steering wheel, tires, and wheels have all been reproduced so a youngster can recognize the real equipment on his next visit to his hometown airport. The front of the tractor has simulated recessed headlights, the cross-hatch design of the radiator grille and the trademark, "Clark." A rectangular opening near the bottom is included for attaching cord to make the new item a pull toy. The two large rear wheels and two smaller front wheels are made of heavy rubber.

Made of 18-Gauge Steel

Each of the two freight and baggage trailers is made of 18-gauge welded steel. The self-locking couplings let the trailers "track" as the tow tractor is pushed or pulled. To hold baggage, there is a one-piece, interchangeable aluminum body. This body fits tightly into either of the two trailers and is easily changed from one to the other. Adding another authentic note is the decal of a major airline. Six scheduled passenger-carrying airlines have authorized the use of their trademarks on the new toy. Wheels are made of hard rubber. Each trailer is finished in brightly colored baked enamel. One trailer is yellow and the other is green.

In announcing the new toy, Frederick W. Doepke, vice-president in charge of sales, said: "This is our first new toy for 1954. To meet the needs of our wholesalers and retailers, production of this Clarktor will begin in January. This new toy will meet the needs of those youngsters in the lower age group whose parents have requested realistic, simple, and durable toys. Boys and girls in the group from six to ten years old will find the same accurate reproduction they have in their other Model Toys. Our entire present line will be continued in 1954, thus providing nine different toys for retailers. This is the most complete line we have ever offered to the public. Our prices remain unchanged, as they have been since 1946, thus making Model Toys a better buy than ever for the general public."

Lowest Priced "Model Toy"

Doepke pointed out that the new Clarktor is the lowest priced authentic Model Toy ever offered. It will retail for $9.95. "Despite this relatively low price, none of the quality and construction that mark Model Toys has been sacrificed," he said. "Our continually expanding production facilities, coupled with a stepped-up program of engineering development, enables us to produce this toy in a price bracket that will not only meet public demand, but will aid the sale of our other toys."
